JUDGE PARKER SHOWS GAINS

His Strength Is Growing on the Eve of the Convention.

CONSERVATIVES IN CONTROL

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

St. Louis, July 4.—The chief feature of today's developments is the growing strength of Parker. Equally marked a feature is the impotence of Bryan. His day is so far done that he is now an element of weakness to the anti-Parker forces. Some favorite sons still entertain hopes, but their managers draw off in alarm from any proposition which looks like taking them up as the basis of a Bryan combination. They realize that even if the combination could be put together it would simply mean a Bryan veto upon Parker and the Parker managers would be abundantly able to prevent the success of any candidate who allowed himself to be used for that purpose. Their only hope of success is in coming into the convention as favorite sons and trusting to the chapter of chances.

This is evidently the idea which animates the Gorman adherents. They still hope that the presidential lightning will strike him, but they will not truck with Bryan. Even Hearst is pulling away from Bryan, and the reason is very simple. Hearst regards himself as a man with a future; Bryan is only a man with a past. Hence the time has come to part company. There is hardly enough left of the Hearst boom to utter a peep at present, but he is still a young man and there will be other conventions. The advertising character of his boom is in evidence here by the fact that the dead walls and billboards of the town have been postered with his picture. It now serves as a reminder that he is a candidate.

Hill Victory Over Bryan.

Whatever else may be the result of the convention, it has already shown a decisive victory for Hill over Bryan in their long battle. Bryan knocked him out in 1896 and in 1900; this is their third encounter, and it finds Bryan "all in," while Hill has renewed his strength. He is so easily master of the situation that Bryan's efforts redound to Hill's advantage. He bears himself with tact and modesty in this hour of triumph. The keynote of his advocacy of Parker is that he is a new man who has not been connected with any of the factional struggles, so that he is just the man for the standard-bearer of a reunited Democracy. He said to me:

"It is time for us old fellows to step aside. We all get the presidential bee in our bonnets. I have had it myself, but I have gotten over it. What I am trying to do now is to help to put an end to this tearing down the party by getting in a man who will build up the party, and Judge Parker is that man."

Mr. Hill's pictures do not do him justice. His features are more rugged and

PARKER GETS PENNSYLVANIA

Delegation Will Cast Its Vote for the New York Judge.

WAS NOT UNANIMOUS

Five Members of the Caucus Dissented to Proposal Made by Guffey.

COMMITTEEMAN IS RE-ELECTED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

St. Louis, July 4.—Pennsylvania has a front seat in the Parker band wagon. The delegation tonight by a vote of 58 to 5 instructed Chairman J. M. Guffey to cast the 68 votes of the states for Judge Alton B. Parker. This is considered to settle the nomination. Several other doubtful states will follow the lead of Pennsylvania and some of Hearst's supporters are breaking away.

During the day William J. Bryan, and Charles F. Murphy of Tammany made a final attempt to lead Col. Guffey away from Parker. They sought to make ex-Gov. Robert E. Pattison the candidate of the anti-Parker forces. The colonel gave them no encouragement. He decided that there was no reason why he should play into the hands of the Nebraskan, believing that for the past eight years he had given him all that was coming to him.

It was not until after dinner this evening that it was decided that the delegation would tie up with Parker at this time. There has never been much question that it would eventually land there. When it was found that further delay would not be advantageous, a conference of some of the prominent Pennsylvanians was called by Col. Guffey. He summoned ex-Gov. Pattison, James Kerr, B. F. Meyers, Senator Cochran, Chairman Hall and H. M. North. The situation was gone over, and the colonel announced that, in his opinion, the time had come to indorse Parker. The word was accordingly passed around.

Guffey Elected Chairman.

The caucus was held at Pennsylvania headquarters, in the Southern hotel, and everyone but delegates was excluded from the room. Sixty-three of the 68 delegates responded to roll call, the absentees being D. T. Watson and George A. Koehler of Allegheny, J. B. S. Rhinehart of Greene, Hugh Moore of Philadelphia and C. H. Sharp of Scranton.

Col. Guffey was elected chairman of the delegation by acclamation and P. Gray Meek was made secretary. Col. Guffey was re-elected a member of the national committee. W. J. Brennen of Pittsburgh was chosen a member of the committee on credentials; Senator A. G. Dewalt of Allentown, on organization; Representative J. Scott Ammerman of Montour, on rules; ex-Gov. Pattison of Philadelphia, on resolutions; J. K. P. Hall of Elk, to notify the presidential nominee; George W. Guthrie of Pittsburgh, to notify vice presidential nominee; H. M. North of Lancaster, honorary vice chairman of the convention; John M. Garman of Luzerne, honorary secretary of the convention.

The selection of ex-Gov. Pattison on the committee on resolutions is doubtless a bit of disappointment to Robert E. Wright of Allentown. He is the professional platform builder of the Pennsylvania Democracy and had rather expected that he would be named by the caucus. He had a couple of planks that he wanted to offer. In 1896 he bolted Bryan, and the Nebraskan has not forgotten it. He made a request that Guffey keep Wright off the committee. This request probably had little weight. There is a sentiment among the Pennsylvanians that Wright should be disciplined a bit for gold tendencies in 1896, and it was probably to please these Democrats that Guffey put Pattison to the front.

Garman Started a Row.

Charles P. Donnelly, of Philadelphia, offered a resolution instructing Chairman Guffey to cast the 68 votes of Pennsylvania for Parker. A number of delegates made speeches seconding the proposition, and the roll was called. The result was 58 to 5. The five voting against Parker instructions were Garman of Luzerne; Petriken of Huntingdon; Moyer of Blair; Wilson of Beaver, and Palmer of Crawford.

Garman then caused the one fight of the caucus and it did not amount to much. He offered a resolution instructing the member of the resolutions committee to fight any attempt to mention the name of any living Democrat in the platform. This roused the ire of Albert

Nebraskan Continues to Make Claims Which Are Not Taken Seriously.

St. Louis, July 4.—Judge Parker tonight seems to be in his homestretch. Not only is he close to the wire, but he appears to be the only one who will finish. Others were at the post, but they never got away. Parker has had a clear track and is doing the distance in a canter.

W. J. Bryan is still a very busy man. He claims to control enough votes to not only prevent Parker's nomination on the first and second ballots, but to deadlock his convention and force another selection. Bryan possibly believes what he states. No one else does. His actual strength when the tug of war comes will, it is believed, be less than a score of votes.

Senator Gorman was the Bryan candidate yesterday. Pattison of Pennsylvania, Cockrell of Missouri and others have engaged the Nebraskan's time today. He is making desperate efforts to head off Parker. This morning he offered ex-Gov. Pattison his support, and he tried to have Col. Guffey help the scheme along. But Guffey is not taking any silver bricks. Like Gorman, he knows that Bryan is down and out, and that anyone who ties up with him will get hurt. So the colonel only listened and made no promises.

A conference was held at the Southern hotel this morning which indicated that at that time the anti-Parker forces still retained some hope of beating the New York judge. It was agreed that on the first and second ballots, the delegates from West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, forming the nucleus

NEW YORK JUDGE IN FAVOR

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

St. Louis, July 4.—Until early evening Pattison was being boomed for president by the anti-Parkerites. Bryan started it by calling upon both Guffey and Pattison. He told them that Nebraska intended to divide its vote among favorite sons and the ex-governor would be among the number supported.

It is not because they love Pattison, but because they hope to use him to prevent the nomination of Parker. The more favorite sons that can be gotten in the field, the easier it will be to keep the necessary two-thirds away from the New York judge.

Guffey gave no indication during the day that he intended to swallow the bait dangling on the Bryan hook. He realized that if he gave the 68 votes from Pennsylvania to Pattison, unless there was a real opportunity to nominate him, that Bryan becomes just 68 votes stronger in the convention. This argument is being used by the Parker men. James Kerr of Clearfield was scattering it among the Pennsylvania delegates in the endeavor to keep them from deciding to give complimentary mention to the Philadelphian.

Guffey and Bryan met this morning at the meeting of the national committee, and it was there that the Nebraskan held out the suggestion of aid for Pattison. The colonel admitted that Bryan had told him that Nebraska would cast her votes for Pattison, but Guffey would give no indication of what he thought of the proposition.

St. Louis, July 4.—There is one great, overpowering figure here who dominates the situation completely, and that is David B. Hill of New York. Modestly keeping in the background and declining to act as chairman of the committee on resolutions, his influence is felt everywhere, and he is complete master. With that shrewd generalship for which he is noted, Hill has sounded the depths and shallows of all the booms that have been brought forward in opposition to Parker and has found them too insignificant to cause him worry.

Confident that Parker is to be nominated and that Parker's friends will control the convention in every respect, Hill feels safe and secure. This feeling upon his part is shared by the great majority of the leaders of the Democracy, and they are still eager to secure his indorsement for planks that they wish to get into the platform. As each proposition is brought to the attention of the manager of the Parker campaign he passes upon it with surprising promptness and keen insight. There is no hesitation or uncertainty. Hill acts with the consciousness of his power.

Today Senator Fred T. Dubois of Idaho went to Hill with the proposition for a plank in the platform declaring against permitting the practice of polygamy. The New Yorker listened and nodded his approval.

"Well, what do you want? A constitutional amendment?" asked Hill.

"Yes, I think that would be the best

HILL SAYS PARKER'S NOMINATION IS ASSURED

Pennsylvania Delegation's Action Followed by Stampede to the Judge.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—The announcement that Pennsylvania had declared for Parker, insuring his nomination, was followed by a stampede of non-committed delegations.

"Pennsylvania has expressed the wish of the people," said David B. Hill. "Its action makes definite a result which was, in my opinion, inevitable. Judge Alton B. Parker's nomination and election are assured."

"Will Mr. Bryan bolt?" Mr. Hill was asked.

"I cannot speak for Mr. Bryan. All we can do is to follow the straight and narrow path of party duty. Those who get out of the path will make the journey hard for themselves. Personally, I do not think there will be any scattering of the party's forces."

At Tammany headquarters the news of Pennsylvania's action was received with mixed feelings. Charles F. Murphy and Bourke Cockran were painfully active. They recognized the handwriting on the wall and did not attempt to discount its significance. Many of the braves in unison voiced, "I told you so," and embraced the Parker loving cups.

And so it went all down the line of the states. That Pennsylvania had cast the die was admitted, and the other states hustled to fall in line.

If Parker has the strength claimed by his managers he will receive the necessary two-thirds vote on the initial ballot.

LOST NUMBER 646

Only Four Lifeboats Lowered, Improperly Manned—Two of These Useless.

STATEMENT MADE BY CAPTAIN

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

London, July 5, 3:45 a. m.—Of 771 souls on board the Danish steamer Norge, 128, including Capt. Gundel, are known to have been saved up to this hour. One of the children died in a life boat which brought others to safety. For the missing 646 persons small hopes are entertained.

The enormous death roll, which was feared with the first news of the wreck has been decreased by 192, that number of survivors, after many privations, having been landed at Stornoway yesterday. The majority of the 26 who were landed at Grimsby have arrived at Liverpool, from where they will sail on the Cunard line steamer Saxonia, which leaves tomorrow for Boston. Vessels are searching in the vicinity of Rockall for any more survivors. The chief hope lies in Capt. Gundel's statement that seven boatloads got safely away.

Capt. Gundel's statement, given out at Stornoway yesterday, was as follows:

"All went well until about 7:45 o'clock last Tuesday. When about 18 miles south of Rockall I felt the steamer strike heavily forward on a sunken rock. There was a gentle breeze blowing from the south, with a cloudy sky. I was on the bridge with Chief Officer Carpenter. Soundings were taken, and it was reported there were five feet of water in the forward hold.

"Orders were given to commence pumping and also to the passengers to put on life belts and be ready to get into the boats, which were ordered to be put out. The crew worked nobly under the leadership of the chief officer. Seven boats got safely away, the life rafts were cut adrift and the steamer went down by the bow. The chief officer told me she was sinking, and I told him to jump overboard, which he did. I did not see him again. I went down with the steamer. My right leg got jammed between two stanchions and was much injured. When I rose to the surface I noticed a number of bodies floating. The Norge was afloat only about 20 minutes after striking.

"I swam for about 20 minutes and came across Second Engineer Bruun, who is a good swimmer. We kept company for

FORMER REPUBLICAN FOR THE VICE PRESIDENCY

State of Washington Offers Ex-Senator Turner to St. Louis Convention—Hill Promises to Think About Him.

By L. W. STRAYER.
(Staff Correspondent.)
[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—There has been more talk today of vice presidential candidates than heretofore, and the boom of ex-Senator George Turner of Washington has come to the front. In this matter, as in the drafting of the platform, David B. Hill of New York is believed to hold the key to the situation, and efforts were made to have him put the stamp of his approval upon Turner. Senator Fred T. Dubois of Idaho is looking after Turner's interests, although the latter is himself on the ground. Dubois today went to Hill with the suggestion that Turner was the most available man, pointing out that aside from his excellent qualifications he would be a tower of strength to the ticket in the west.

Hill listened attentively, as he does to all suggestions, and made some remarks that were construed as encouraging, although he did not commit himself to Turner. He promised to think it over, and agreed with Senator Dubois that Turner was an able man and would be a credit to the ticket. Further than that he did not go.

When this news percolated through the hotel lobbies Turner stock took a boom and from a possibility he became almost a probability. His principal handicap is that he is located too far west. It is believed that the leaders would prefer a man from the middle west, though it is possible that they would not permit this fact alone to disqualify Turner. Mr. Turner's term in the United States senate expired with the last congress and President Roosevelt appointed him a member of the Alaskan boundary commission. He was elected to the senate as a free-silver Republican, but later he affiliated with the Democrats. Notwithstanding his free silver record, he has been a strong supporter of Parker.

The Tennessee delegation today decided to put Senator Carmack of that state forward for second place. Representative John Wesley Gaines said that they had no pledges of support from other states, but that they would do all they could to bring about Senator Carmack's nomination. He has been prominently identified with the Parker boom.

Comparatively little talk was heard today of Mayor Rose of Milwaukee in connection with the vice presidential nomination. It is said that some leading Democrats have a theory that if a Wisconsin man is nominated for vice president it will have the effect of causing the Republicans to make up their differences and compromise their quarrel. Hence they think there is more chance of the Democrats carrying Wisconsin if they keep out of that fight.

HAPPY FOURTH OF JULY MULTITUDE IN THE WEST PARK, ALLEGHENY

MANY THOUSANDS WATCHED THE OPEN-AIR VAUDEVILLE PERFORMANCE.

GREAT CROWDS OUT ON FOURTH

Pictures in Flame of Roosevelt and Fairbanks Evoked Enthusiasm of Throngs.

HOW DAY WAS CELEBRATED

The big cheer that went up from 100,000 throats in Schenley park last night could be heard clear to Fifth avenue, despite the noise of rockets, shells and bombs that filled the air. The cheer was brought out by one of the set pieces at the Fourth of July fireworks display showing pictures of Roosevelt and Fairbanks, the Republican candidates for president and vice president. The fiery portraits of Mayor Hays and Director Edward M. Bigelow were cheered, too, and George Washington on horseback was heartily applauded.

It was a beautiful Fourth, so far as the weather was concerned, and although there were lots of fireworks everywhere there was much noise as usual down the downtown streets, perhaps because there were stricter police regulations. Fourth of July without accidents from fireworks would nowadays hardly be considered a Fourth patriotically observed, but accidents yesterday were comparatively few, not very many of them being serious.

It is estimated that the crowd at Schenley park to see the pyrotechnical display was larger than ever before, exclusive only of the celebration of the Fourth at which President Roosevelt was present.

Although the usual sporting events were not held in Schenley park thousands picnicked there during the day. Twenty-five policemen were assigned to duty there by 9 a. m., and later in the day and at night 100 more peace protectors were on hand. They took dinner and supper in the shelter house at the end of the bridle path, where Frank Lorenzo, the refreshment concessionaire had established a dining room for the day.

The West park, Allegheny, was the gathering place for a crowd that was estimated at close to 25,000 persons, who assembled to enjoy the music, vaudeville and fire works provided by the fund contributed for the purpose.

The weather was hot, but the crowds were dressed for just such a day and evidently paid little attention to the almost stifling atmosphere. Swarms of children gathered with their elders about the bandstands and the vaudeville theater erected near the lake. Huge balloons in the shape of every species of wild animal were sent up during the entire afternoon close to where a Punch and Judy show delighted the little ones.

The Grand Army and Knights of Pythias bands contributed music, and Prof. Lawrence mystified everyone with his sleight-of-hand performance. The Lindsay jubilee singers sang old plantation melodies. Prof. Dodds, with his trained dogs, and Prof. Nixdorf, the cyclist, also contributed to the entertainment with their specialties.

The fireworks display on Monument hill was the most gorgeous that has ever been witnessed on the North Side. The first bomb was sent up shortly before 9 o'clock, and for almost two hours the crowds that thronged the parks and streets watched the explosions of an assortment of fireworks, generous in its variety. Fire pictures of Roosevelt, Fairbanks, Mayor Wyman and Director Scandrett were shown. The pyrotechnic display was followed by a Chinese fireworks bombardment in front of city hall. Not an accident was reported at police headquarters up to a late hour last night.

SOWING THE SEED OF DREAD TETANUS

Many Victims of the Careless Handling of Fireworks and Pistols.

TIME WILL TELL WHOLE STORY

Fourth of July in Pittsburgh was remarkably free from serious accidents. There were, of course, a number of minor injuries caused by the careless handling of fireworks and revolvers. Whether any of these will result in the much-dreaded tetanus and prove fatal the next nine days or so will show. The accidents reported up to 4 o'clock this morning are as follows:

FRANK ABERNETHY, aged 15, of 17 Charles street, Allegheny, had his right foot badly lacerated by the premature bursting of a giant firecracker.

E. C. ARNOLD, a coal miner, aged 19 years, of Arnold, Pa., had his right hand blown off at the wrist and three fingers torn from his left hand by the bursting of a small cannon. He was brought to the Homeopathic hospital and may die.

JOSEPH ATELL, aged 27, of Pittsburgh, an employe of the Babcock Fire Extinguisher Company, had the lower lid of left eye blown off by the explosion of a cannon cracker in McKeesport.

ALBERT BARNER, aged 14 years, of 500 Mulberry alley, McKeesport, had two fingers blown off his right hand by the premature explosion of a cannon cracker.

CHARLES E. BARD of Avalon dropped a revolver into a package of powder in McCormick's drug store, causing $100 damage and severely burning his hand.

FRANK MALTBY of Avalon, hurt by the explosion in McCormick's drug store and painfully burned about the face and hands.

JOSEPH BEHRES, aged 8, of South Eighteenth street, had his right hand badly lacerated by the explosion of the metal portion of a torpedo cane.

HARRY FINGER, aged 12, of 625 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, had his forehead torn open from side to side by the explosion of a cannon cracker.

ROBERT GARDIFF, aged 25, of McClure street, Homestead, had two fingers of his right hand blown off by a cannon cracker.

JOHN GOTSCHE of McKeesport shot himself through the left hand by the accidental discharge of a revolver.

THOMAS HAINES, Keystone street, had his right hand badly lacerated by the explosion of a cannon cracker.

IDA HANKE, aged 14, of Strawberry alley, was shot in the neck with the wad of a small cannon fired by an employe of a store at 625 Smithfield street. She was painfully but not seriously burned.

CHARLES HARTZELL, aged 17, of 129 North St. Clair street, had his right hand shattered by a cracker.

FRANK HOKO, aged 2 years, of Lockey avenue, Allegheny, was shot in the foot by a revolver in the hands of Tony Balliet of McClure avenue. Alderman David Thomas sent Balliet to jail on a charge of felonious assault and battery, preferred by Constable John Merriman.

JAMES SHAW, aged 12, of Penn avenue, Turtle Creek, was severely burned in the face and on the arms by powder from a toy cannon.

JAMES TRENT, JR., aged 4, Mifflin street, near Thirty-ninth, was badly burned on the left hand by a large cannon cracker.

JOHN WARDO, aged 8, of Eleventh street, Braddock, was shot in the left arm while playing in the yard at his home by Andrew Frank, a slav, who was firing a revolver in the street.

JOHN WILHELM of 224 Spring Garden avenue, Allegheny, shot himself through the left hand with a 22-caliber revolver.

WILLIE MCCOY, aged 14 years, of 510 Cherry alley, fell from a swing in Schenley park and broke his right arm. He was taken to Mercy hospital.

JOHN PIERPONT, aged 5, of 127 Cherry alley, McKeesport, was shot in the body by a 38-caliber bullet from a revolver in the hands of an unknown man. He is in a critical condition at McKeesport hospital.

JOHN RICHARDS of Eleventh street, Esplen, held a giant cracker when it exploded, shattering his left hand. The arm was later amputated at the elbow when he was taken to the McKees Rocks hospital.

WILLIAM SELMAN of Mulberry alley, McKeesport, was struck in the right eye by a bullet from a revolver and may lose his arm.

CARRIE SLOAN, a negress of 510 Kilbuck street, Allegheny, had the index finger of her right hand lacerated by the bursting of a giant cracker she held.

DAVID RUCH, aged 15, a newsboy, was severely burned about the face and neck while standing on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie platform at McKeesport. A passenger threw a lighted cannon cracker through a car window and it struck the boy in the neck as it exploded.

W. H. BUCKLEY, 264 Frankstown avenue, had his hand badly wounded by a piece of a giant firecracker, exploded by a street car striking him.

ROBERT BURROW, aged 40, of Staten Island, N. Y., was accidentally shot by an unknown Italian at Rankin, the bullet going through both his legs. He was shot and was taken to the Homeopathic hospital. His wounds are not serious.

STEPHEN CROUSE, Fairfield and Smallman streets, was burned about the eyes and face by fire generated by the explosion of a cannon cracker.

BLANCHE DAVIS, aged 14, of Penn avenue and Twenty-ninth street, accidentally shot herself in the hand with a toy pistol.

WILLIAM DAVIS, aged 56, of McKees Rocks, had his leg torn by the discharge of a firecracker.

HENRY DURMINS of 27 Tasgart street, Allegheny, had his right foot almost blown off yesterday by the bursting of a cannon.

AUGUST JEALKE, aged 21, of 123 Pius street, was shot through the left foot by the ramrod of a cannon. He was taken to the South Side hospital and his condition is critical. Jealke was crossing Pius street while Andrew Fuchs was firing a brass cannon. Fuchs had neglected to extract a steel ramrod from the barrel and the rod, penetrating Jealke in the left foot, passed through it. Fuchs was arrested.

LEO JOZOFSKI, aged 3, of Wayne street, accidentally shot himself in the left hand with a toy pistol.

THEODORE LAMB, aged 7, of Sixth street, McKeesport, had the left eye torn out of his head by the premature explosion of a cannon cracker.

PAUL LEKOSKI of Thirty-third street was badly burned about the face by the premature explosion of a cannon cracker.

FRANK LUTHY, aged 13, of 916 Ridge street, Mt. Washington, had his left hand shattered and arm lacerated by the explosion of a cannon cracker.

JOSEPH MAHA, of Shields street, McKeesport, had the index finger of his left hand blown off by the explosion of a cannon cracker. His hand and arm were also badly lacerated.

WILLIAM MILLARD, aged 12, Third street, Esplen, burned about the neck and face and had a finger lacerated by the explosion of a cannon cracker. Wounds not serious.

HILL IS BOSS AT ST. LOUIS

form," replied Senator Dubois.

"All right," said Hill, "go ahead and write the plank," and the matter was disposed of.

Mark Smith of Arizona went to Hill to talk with him about a plank favoring statehood for territories. Smith wanted a declaration for single statehood for Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, the identical proposition that Senator Quay made his fight for in the last congress. In that contest Quay had the solid backing of the Democratic party in the senate as well as a considerable number of Republicans. Again Hill listened and approved. Smith went away to his room to write the plank.

Thus is the sage of Wolfert's Roost presiding over the affairs of the Democratic convention. These propositions are brought to him and he stamps his O. K. or N. G. mark on them, as the case may be. Not all the propositions are approved, by any means. A number of men have taken their plans to him and have gone sadly from his presence with the word that "Hill won't stand for it." And that settles the whole matter. If Hill declines to approve a plank it is dropped, for it is understood that he will be in control.

The Democrats are strong for personal independence and they say they propose to avoid any semblance of bossism. They recoil with terror from the mere suggestion of permitting one man to write their platform, as Senator Lodge did for the Republican convention, leaving it for the committee on resolutions to approve or reject. Consequently Hill's plan is to permit the committee to formulate the platform by the method outlined above. And it is his idea that the declarations of this important document should represent a compromise of the ideas of the various factions.

Therefore it is said that a strong gold plank will be offered the committee, such a plank as there is no hope or desire to have adopted. Bryan will be there with his free silver plank and then will come the compromise. The eastern men will insist decidedly upon the gold plank, and Bryan will fight for the silver plank, and in the end a harmless and meaningless paragraph will be adopted, something like that contained in the Mississippi state platform.

This is a sample of Mr. Hill's political shrewdness, and it is said that he will apply the same treatment to the trust question and the tariff. Radical and conservative will come together in the committee and fight it out, and when it is all over there will remain such compromise planks as suit the fancy of Hill. And the committee will think it really made the platform.

It is predicted, upon good authority, that the tariff plank will by no means declare for free trade or even for revenue only. It will declare against a protection that fosters and builds up trusts and monopolies and will promise a revision of the tariff schedules.

The principal plank, and the one that will attract the most interest is of course, the money plank. That, it is understood, has been entrusted to John Sharp Williams to write, and he is still in hiding struggling with it and his speech as temporary chairman. But a question that has been asked often during the day is, what will William J. Bryan demand on the money question, and how far will he go to get what he wants? This was answered by a man who talked with Mr. Bryan on this subject and asked him the question:

"Mr. Bryan, what will you ask the committee on resolutions to adopt as the money plank?"

"We will ask them to reaffirm the Kansas City platform," he replied.

"But suppose you cannot get that?" was suggested.

"Well, half a loaf is better than none," replied Mr. Bryan.

This would indicate that Bryan intends to make his fight for free silver, but has no hope of winning. It also indicates that if he cannot get what he wants, he will take what he can get. And it is not hard to guess what he will get.

It is reported that a committee composed of delegates from Alabama and New Jersey, called upon Mr. Bryan and asked him point blank if there is any man whose name is to go before the convention whom he would not support if nominated. Bryan did not like to be catechised in this manner and said so, but the committee insisted, and finally Mr. Bryan said:

"Well, there is but one man whose name I have heard mentioned as a candidate for this convention whom I would not support if he was nominated."

"Who is that?" inquired the committee.

"Grover Cleveland," replied Mr. Bryan.

When Bryan Will Decide Bolt.

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—William J. Bryan was engaged during the day with callers, many of them representing aspirants for the presidential nomination. He discussed the situation with all of them, but committed himself to none. Among his visitors were some members of the North Carolina delegation, who insisted that Mr. Bryan should state in definite terms whether it was his purpose to bolt the ticket in case it should not be to his liking. He only replied that he would answer that question when the ticket was named.

$450 DECKER PIANO. $155.

of the anti-Parker strength, would cast their votes for Senator Cockrell. If the nomination of Parker could be prevented for two ballots, it was believed that there would be a fighting chance of beating him and on the third ballot the three delegations mentioned were to be joined by Idaho and Utah and all were to vote for Gorman. Missouri was also to reshuffle by casting her votes for Gorman and in this way it was hoped to crystallize the anti-Parker strength.

This proposition, however, did not appeal to the Pennsylvania leader. Guffey knows when he is up against a stone wall. For a long time he has fully understood the strength of the Parker current. He has made no effort, as was coming to St. Louis, if he did before, to stem this current. His connections have been kept open and at all times he has been in a position where he could, without embarrassment, throw his strength to the New Yorker. That he would do so has been forecasted in these dispatches.

Even Tammany is not seriously opposing Parker. Leader Charles F. Murphy and some of his close friends are still saying that Cleveland is the strongest man who could be named, but the members of the delegations, a majority of them, admit that Parker is the only man now in the race. They would prefer someone else, but are too practical to butt their heads against what is obviously a sure thing. Mayor McClellan has some strength in the delegation. He would like to be complimented, but this is the hour of the bandwagon, not of bouquets.

Cleveland, Gorman, Gray and McClellan are no longer possibilities. Parker stands alone. If he is to be beaten, a dark horse must do the trick. In view of Parker's commanding lead, the powerful interests which are helping him to maintain it, the suggestion that he can be beaten by a dark horse does not appear to be a rational one.

Bryan, although checkmated at every turn, will supply the chief spectacular incident of the convention. This may be safely anticipated. Whether it will come as an arraignment of the majority action, or whether he will, as did Dubois, Teller, Cannon and Pettigrew in 1896, walk out of the convention, repudiate and cut loose from the party which has twice so highly honored him, remains to be told.

Will Visit World's Fair.

LONDON, July 4.—Eighty members of the house of commons have announced their intention of joining the parliamentary party, which will visit the St. Louis exposition in the autumn. It is expected that a number of others will also go.

JUDGE PARKER SHOWS GAINS

the lines of thought more marked than appear in any of his pictures, which seem to date back years ago. It is plain to be seen that a perfect understanding exists between Hill and the other big men of the party as regards all questions of organization.

Even those who have not gotten into the Parker band wagon are in accord with the conservatives, who propose to run this convention themselves without consulting Mr. Bryan's wishes. Chairmen of the big delegations keep slipping into Mr. Hill's room for a private talk and when they go away they look pleased and Mr. Hill looks pleased.

The certainty that the organization and conduct of the convention will be controlled by the conservatives perhaps gives a greater appearance of strength to the Parker movement than it really possesses. So long as Mr. Bryan is a central figure in movements to combine the field Parker stock goes bounding up. With Bryan out of the way it might be different; and hopes are still entertained that it will be different, but all the indications point to Parker's success. Every possible combination so far suggested sends votes his way, and in no case is this more marked than when Cleveland is mentioned as a possibility. Parker appears to be the clear first choice of a majority and the second choice of enough more to give him more than the two-thirds majority necessary under convention rules.

There were signs of quitting in the ranks of the Maryland delegation. It caucuses tomorrow and some of the delegates are saying already that there is no use in holding out for Gorman and that they might as well get into the Parker band wagon.

WOULD VOTE FOR PATTISON

morning there was what might be termed the test of strength between the Parker and anti-Parker men. The Parkerites wanted the sub committee to hear all of the contests and the other side favored the submission of all of the disputes to sub-committees. The latter scheme was adopted by a vote of 29 to 15. Guffey voted for the sub-committee plan and the vote from Maryland was cast with the Parkerites.

Kerr of Clearfield, Kane of Philadelphia and several other delegates have been working all day to induce the Pennsylvania leaders to declare for Parker. They say that the New Yorker is bound to win the nomination and the state should get into the procession in time to count. While probably every delegate from Pennsylvania would follow Guffey wherever he leads, there is no question that a majority of them want to vote for Parker. Senator J. Henry Cochran of Williamsport reaches here this afternoon. He cut short a European tour to get to St. Louis in time to vote for Parker.

The Independence party of Philadelphia has about decided to abandon its contest of the seats of the 12 regular delegates from the Quaker City. One of the contestants, J. Burwood Daly, has made certain of getting into the convention by securing a commission as an assistant sergeant-at-arms from ex-Senator David B. Hill of New York. The other 11 are still hunting a hole in the canvas of the big tent. This morning the Parker people sent a big bundle of Parker pictures and much literature over to the Pennsylvania headquarters. Secretary Meek had the package put away until some use is found for it.

JUDGE PARKER GETS PENNSYLVANIA DELEGATION

J. Barr of Pittsburgh. He said that the member of the committee was a man of judgment and horse sense and could be trusted to look after the interests of the state. Gorman then declared that if Cleveland is mentioned in the platform he will hiss the ex-president's name on the floor of the convention. Barr told him that if he did he should be thrown out. Charles Donnelly stopped the fun by successfully putting through a motion to table the Gorman proposition.

James Kerr of Clearfield, who has been a consistent Parker man, made this statement: "Pennsylvania has picked the winner for this convention and the entire credit is due to the leadership of Col. Guffey. He has placed the state in the front rank of the Parker procession. We could not afford to listen to Mr. Bryan. He has been very well treated in the past by us and this was not a time to follow his leadership. I think that I have a right to say this as I have always been his friend."

Col. Guffey said after the caucus that he had no statement to make, save to say he is well pleased with the action of the delegation.

WEST VIRGINIA PREPARES FOR BREAK TO PARKER

Hill Advises Delegates to Get Together Before Hysterical Stage Is Reached.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—West Virginia is paving the way for a break to the Parker camp. The delegates have been tied to Gorman, but the leaders have about reached the conclusion that it is time to anchor elsewhere. Ex-Senator H. G. Davis had a talk with Col. Guffey at 5 o'clock this afternoon and denied the report that Gorman had sent word that he would not allow the use of his name. Davis says that he has received no definite information and is still disposed to stick to the Maryland statesman.

Ex-Gov. W. A. McCorkle called upon Senator Hill today. McCorkle has reached the conclusion that Gorman is out of the running, and is of the opinion that West Virginia will have a leaning toward Parker. Hill advised him to get the delegates together while they are still sane, as a hysterical stage may be reached later.

John T. McGraw is another West Virginian who is inclined to believe that it is useless to carry the Gorman boom any longer. He thinks that the signs point to the nomination of Parker. The delegation will not reach here until tomorrow and a caucus will be held soon after the arrival of the delegates.

King was 40 years old and his home was in Pittsburgh, Pa., where his mother resides.

ORIGINAL PARKER MAN COMES TO THE FRONT

Congressman Gaines Claims to Have Discovered the Judge's Possibilities.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—The original Parker man has come to the front and registered. He is the Hon. John Wesley Gaines, representative in congress from the Nashville (Tenn.) district. Standing in the lobby of the Southern hotel today, Mr. Gaines modestly but firmly proclaimed his claim to the distinction of being the first Democrat in the country to discover in the New York jurist presidential possibilities.

"In 1897," said he, "I made a speech in the house of representatives in which I called attention to a decision handed down by Judge Parker and at that time I stated that he would be a good man for the Democrats to nominate for president. I am pleased to know that my view of the man publicly expressed on the floor of the house, has been indorsed by the party. In a recent newspaper article, Judge Thayer of the United States court, the man who wrote the Northern Securities decision, referred to this same decision of Judge Parker's that I did when I suggested that he be nominated for president."

WILL FIGHT M'LEAN FOR NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

Wrangle Begun in Ohio Delegation Which Will Be Continued Today.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—There will be a fight in the Ohio delegation tomorrow for control. It was expected that John R. McLean was to have a clear field for member of the national committee. Some of the county leaders, with Charles P. Salen at the head, are apparently getting ready to take a hand.

Tonight Salen planned to arrange a slate-making party and issued invitations to about 30 delegates to be present. A great many did not attend. Among those present was Tom L. Johnson, mayor of Cleveland. It was finally decided that nothing would be attempted until the caucus is held.

Judge Lewis Brucker of Mansfield is a candidate for national committeeman against McLean and has the backing of Salen. The latter would like to be made chairman of the delegation. The McLean people charge that he has broken faith by assisting Brucker, and a lively time is expected in the caucus.

Johnson is hopeful that he can land the membership on the committee on resolutions. The McLean men say that John McMahon of Dayton will be named. There is much favorable talk for Parker in the delegation tonight. It is probable the delegates tomorrow will decide to abandon the Harmon boom and turn in for the New York judge. Harland Cleveland is insisting that Harmon be given a complimentary vote.

Tuesday, July 5, 1904.

The Gazette desires to call the attention of those of its readers who contemplate summer trips to the announcements of the many summer resort hotels published on page 12 of this issue.

In Western Pennsylvania the "saner Fourth" apparently arrived yesterday, for the list of casualties reported at this writing is unusually small. It is recognized that the returns are probably not all in, but we do not recall a Fourth of July without fatalities reported before midnight. There were several minor accidents, as might have been expected, and tetanus may have a delayed harvest in store, but the signs at present are favorable. What with the administration of hypericum by the homeopaths and inoculation with anti-tetanus serum by the allopaths, the lockjaw cases should be few and far between this year. At the least we hope so.

Texas pipe lines have been cutting rates of pipage. The reduction is almost 50 per cent, and it is expected the difference may be added to the price of oil in that state. The price is so low there is not much money in producing the stuff even with wells in the multi-thousand barrel class. The pipe lines have been wise to cut the rates and share with the producers, for thereby they encourage a larger use of their lines. Of course, overproduction may come later to plague the producers, but the pipe lines should then be able to get even on storage charges. The Texas fields, however, are in their infancy and will astonish the world in the future. The newest districts have found a better grade of fluid than the old Beaumont district. That means a good deal to the oil man.

More than 100 new stars have been discovered by Miss Leavitt, through the study of the Harvard photographs of the magellanic clouds. It will require many days of observation to fix the status of these distant celestial bodies, as they are all variables. But the discovery calls fresh attention to the value of the application of photography to the study of the heavens. This art has been carried far by Harvard, and that university has the largest collection of astronomical plates of both the northern and southern hemispheres in the world. The most patient human eye is incapable of the work that is done by the sensitive plate in locating and fixing the distant suns that appear as minute specks through even the most powerful lenses.

It is charged that the steamer Norge, which went down with its load of human freight the other day, was not properly equipped with life preservers and had no danger drill. The captain remained bravely at his post, but became rattled and gave so many conflicting orders that the crew became confused. His personal bravery went for naught. The loss is estimated at 646 lives. This is an awful price to pay for neglect. It is not to be supposed that all could have been saved even if the discipline had been perfect and the life preservers been the best ever made, but it is reasonable to suppose that under such circumstances more than the pitiable 128 would have escaped a watery grave. The disaster is the worst that has happened to a liner since the shameful wreck of the French steamer La Gascogne off the Newfoundland banks a few years ago.

The selection of a man for the head of the naval department, trained in the rigid business system of a great railway, will probably prove one of the happiest appointments ever made by President Roosevelt. One of the great drawbacks to the efficiency of the naval service, it is said, is the cumbersome red tape required in handling correspondence. Vessels at sea suffer from this when they make their requisitions for supplies. It is safe to say that a man of Secretary Morton's training will have small sympathy with such obsolete methods. They represent the very antithesis of everything that he has been accustomed to. Expedition is the watchword of a great railroad system. It should also be that of a great government department. That Secretary Morton will consent to work long under the hampering restrictions of a lot of rules that have nothing more substantial in their favor than precedent, is improbable. A thorough reform in the business methods of the navy department will probably soon follow the opening of his administration of its affairs.

The coming of a special agent of the department of commerce and labor to investigate industrial conditions in Pittsburgh will doubtless be prolific of much valuable information. In no other city in this country is there presented such a mass of material upon which a labor specialist may work. Titanic in their proportions and diverse in their character are the industries of Pittsburgh. A presentation of their statistical side, through the careful medium of the government's expert investigator, will form a valuable addition to the history of industrialism in America, and will doubtless place Pittsburgh in a new light before thousands who have thought of her enterprises as merely commensurate with a city whose population is given as 321,000.

Peace May Be Near.

Two recent announcements concerning the war in the far east have been given less attention than may be their due. The word has gone out from Tokyo that as soon as Port Arthur has been taken a peace proposition will likely be made to Russia that the latter might accept with honor. When there was gossip concerning the possibility of a proffer of mediation from King Edward and Emperor William at Kiel, the Russian government authorized a statement that no mediation would be considered at St. Petersburg, but in the fullness of time peace would be negotiated direct with Japan. This statement may be highly significant.

Japan apparently has no doubt of its ability to take Port Arthur by assault and is evidently bending its energies and brilliant military abilities to that end. The advance of Kuroki, Oku and Nodzu against Kuropatkin now appears merely as movement to make sure that no Russian force should be sent to the relief of the beleaguered fortress, for when a favorable opportunity presented for an engagement with the Russian main army, the Japanese fell back. It is not to be supposed they were either unprepared or afraid to enter a decisive battle, for wherever they had met the Russians on their advance they had been victorious. The Port Arthur campaign is thus seen to be the real point of Japanese interest for the present, and it is being urged with a vigor and accuracy characteristic of the Japanese operations throughout the war.

These facts lend significance to the discussion of peace proposals. From the Japanese point of view the fall of Port Arthur is not an event of the distant future. According to their calculations it is near at hand and they are preparing peace proposals in anticipation of the event. But whether Russia is prepared to negotiate, "direct with Japan" now, or only when it must, does not appear.

A Pattison Boom.

Yesterday the Pattison boom struck St. Louis and it came from a source rather damaging to its prospects, namely, William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska. At the meeting of the national committee Mr. Bryan met Col. Guffey and promptly assured him the 16 votes of Nebraska would be cast for ex-Gov. Pattison of Pennsylvania. This must be regarded as an evidence of sanity on Mr. Bryan's part, the first in a good many weeks. He has evidently awakened to the fact that the "reorganizers" are in full possession and that all he can do is swallow the dose they give him or bolt. That he should turn to Pattison in such a situation does him credit, for while Pattison is a "reorganizer," he has a record of fealty to Bryan through his two campaigns.

Mr. Bryan may discover, while thinking along present lines that Col. Guffey is equally available as Pattison. Mr. Guffey is a business man of large affairs and wide experience. He has a true appreciation of the value of a sound currency system, yet he supported Bryan through his two will-o'-the-wisp campaigns without even making a sorry face. The fact that Pennsylvania is a Republican state does not prevent it having excellent and available material for a Democratic presidential nomination. It has a good man in each end of the state.

Beyond this appearance of a Pennsylvania boom under odd auspices the situation remains as it was last week. Judge Parker is decidedly in the lead and has the best chance for nomination. It is probable Pennsylvania's 68 votes will be cast for him on first ballot and on the second if necessary. But if Judge Parker is not nominated on the second ballot the Pennsylvania boom may become something more than Nebraska hot air.

Figures in Black and White.

Students of the negro problem will find rich material for their consideration in the final bulletin on the nation's negro population, just issued by the census bureau. From the mass of figures presented in this report this summary may be made. The negro's rate of increase generally has declined one-half since 1810. His mortality rate has nearly doubled. In southern cities his rate of increase exceeds that of the whites. In the south negroes form one-third of the population, in the north only one-fortieth.

Going back of this report, one finds that the highwater mark in the negro's ratio of increase was reached in 1810, when his number was 1,400,000—a gain over 1800 of 37.50, largely due to the slave trade. Though there have been marked fluctuations since that time, the decline which then set in has, on the whole, been a steady one until the negro's general ratio of increase today is only 18, as compared with the white ratio of 21.4, the difference being in immigration of the latter. The fact is recorded, also, that only between 11 and 16 per cent of the negro population has some degree of white blood, probably an erroneous estimate, due to failure to respond truthfully to enumerators' questions.

These figures present two significant considerations. First, the negro problem bids fair ultimately to be disposed of by the slow but sure process of natural elimination; and second, while it is with us it is essentially a problem of education. While many people in the south aver it is their exclusive affair, and that they, alone, understand the situation, this is obviously untrue. The declaration of Gov. Vardaman of Mississippi against any education for the blacks has been loudly applauded in the south, and the casual entertainment of Booker Washington by President Roosevelt has been as loudly denounced. The excuse is that the educated negro looks to social equality and that he should not be encouraged in doing so. The real trouble is more deeply seated and is a survival of the institution of slavery, which was—and is—the curse of the south.

Booker T. Washington is striving to make his race useful. He discourages participation in politics. If the south was wholly sincere in its protestations of good will to the blacks it would welcome honors paid to this man. The fact is that the educated negro commands better wages than the uneducated. He revolts against menial service with degrading treatment. The south pines for the conditions of slavery—labor without pay and unquestioning submission to the will or whims of the master. That is why it opposes education of the negro and that is why it resents "interference" from the north in the solution of the negro problem. The southern white would be at peace and in good nature with the negro if the latter would return to the conditions of slavery without the bond, and the southern white has not been sufficiently removed from the blight of slavery to see or admit that there is any other way. But there is another and a better way.

A Great Leader Fallen.

The sudden death of Dr. Theodor Herzl at Vienna, Sunday, removes from the Zionist movement its greatest pioneer and its acknowledged leader at the very moment when some of the projects to which he had devoted his life seemed on the eve of consummation. Born in Budapest in 1860, Herzl at an early age moved with his parents to Vienna. He fitted himself for the bar, but abandoned that profession for journalism and the drama. The turning point in his career came in 1896, when he gave to the world his book entitled, "The Jewish State"—a plea for Jewish restoration of Palestine. Although the book was fiercely assailed by many of his race, who considered it visionary and woefully lacking in want of historic grasp, it met with instant favor among many who had long cherished the dream of a return to Zion, and these sympathizers in every land at once hailed Dr. Herzl as their new Moses.

In response to this trust, Dr. Herzl threw himself unsparingly into his new work. Laboring night and day he planned the first Zionist congress at Basle, and was elected its president. In 1898 he began a series of diplomatic interviews devoted to the furtherance of his great project. He was received many times by Emperor William of Germany and the sultan of Turkey, the latter giving him a decoration as a mark of his esteem. Before Ministers De Witte and Von Plehve of Russia, who were antagonistic to the Zionist movement, Herzl stated its position and won their sympathy. He also sought at that time to have the Russian government adopt measures looking towards the amelioration of the Jews under its care. Before the British Royal Commission he discussed alien immigration and so powerful an impression did he make on Joseph Chamberlain that the latter eventually offered Herzl the aid of the British government to establish a Jewish autonomous colony in British East Africa under British suzerainty. Dr. Herzl's latest work, entitled "Altneuland," is a prophetic forecast of what he believed Zionism would be able to accomplish by 1923. It is buoyant with hope and radiant with the optimism of one who was incapable of measuring obstacles seriously. In it, however, as in nearly all of Herzl's utterances, the religious ideal is conspicuously lacking. It is just this element, probably, which will be demanded in the new leader of the Zionist forces, and material is not lacking now from which to select one.

On its financial side the movement has come into concrete form in the Jewish colonial trust. The great problem which Dr. Herzl left unfinished and which now remains to be solved, is the politico-religious form which the new state shall assume.

Former Gov. Pattison says the Democratic platform will not strain the conscience of voters, but he is discreetly silent concerning its makers.

A party of Chicago university students will view the world's fair as a study in psychology or pikeology, we disremember which.

Talked of in Gotham

By ALEXANDER DODDS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 4.—If you should come to New York within the next three months do not waste time looking about the hotel dining room for the waiter whom you thought was impressed by your generous tips the last time you were here. He has gone. This is the annual migration period of the silent brotherhood that see all, yet hold their tongues. Some went to the college towns in search of the liberal financial offerings of the alumni that gathered for the gladsome days of the commencement season. Others may now be seen at the seashore and mountain resorts, where they are making a collection of coins and enjoying themselves in the hours off duty.

Of course, this leaves the problem of who stays at home in waiterdom. It is one easily solved for it marks an epoch in the career of some 1,000 men who wait anxiously for just this chance. Sans the ability and appearance of the masters of the trade they spend nine months of the year in the cheap restaurants. Those who caught the coveted prize this summer will not fall next fall and winter to casually mention it in their chance conversation with a patron at a second-class hotel. It lends dignity to the profession to say: "When I was at the Waldorf-Astoria."

The Pittsburgh Tip.

Every waiter in the first-class hotels here has a special story about when he was serving a 10-course dinner for two with wine that averaged $100 a plate. Every man at a big hostelry who puts Pittsburgh after his name is a millionaire in the eyes of the waiter, although the majority of the Steel City visitors to the metropolis do not know a pudding furnace from a bake oven. But to the man behind the chair he is a millionaire captain of industry and so hard does he work to please, that one is actually drawn into the extravagance of an excess tip. If you get a quizzical glance when you hand your servitor the sane tip of a quarter, put it down that he knows you are from Pittsburgh and thinks he had failed to please. Fifty cents and $1, he thinks, is the Pittsburgh price.

The Fourth for Those from Dixie.

At the Hotel York, which stands in favor among those who make a pilgrimage here from the southland, Independence day was not passed unnoticed. In the hurry and bustle of the metropolis it was quite refreshing to find that the Fourth of July meant something more to the proprietors than an unusually heavy exodus of guests. Mine host at the York knows well the spirit of patriotism that lies within the bosom of those from below Mason and Dixon line and his guests had their Fourth just the same as if they had been "'way down south 'mid the fields of cotton." Flags were everywhere; the orchestra played the soul-stirring airs of the two republics of 40 years ago and the tables were festooned and dressed until they resembled the good housekeeping illustrations of the woman's magazine. The dessert of today was ice cream correctly colored and frozen in forms of giant cannon crackers.

Awaiting the Lockjaw Harvest.

Children, firecrackers and tetanus were the three best bets of the Fourth of July in Greater New York. The only handicap was a force of 14,000 police and firemen who did their level best to keep Young America from shooting himself up. Preparations were made on a lavish scale by Dr. Darlington, of the board of health, to prevent cases of lockjaw resulting from the powder wounds and enough antitoxin was held available to treat every lad in New York. Four hundred tubes of antitoxin, each of which contained 20 centimeters, more than was used during the entire month of July last year, were prepared by the health bureau laboratory for today and according to reports tonight there was a considerable drain upon the stock. Doubtless many lives were saved by the prompt application of the antitoxin to the injuries of the little ones received during the celebration.

One Day in Land of Liberty Set Him Crazy.

Although Zooch Lavine, a coffee merchant, came from that section of the Caribbean country famous for its revolutions and Richard Harding Davis' "Soldiers of Fortune," one day in the land of liberty made him crazy. He reached New York late last night and secured a room at No. 173 Front street. On his way from the vessel's pier he was kept busy dodging a fusillade of firecrackers. Midnight found the din ever increasing and at 9 o'clock this morning he was taken from the fire escape shouting "Vive la republique" and daring the Fourth of July celebrators, whom he supposed were revolutionists, to shoot him. The police had a hard fight before they could get Lavine into the ambulance and he is now in the insane ward at Bellevue hospital.

Highwaymen on the "L."

David L. Wells, ticket agent at the "L" station at the foot of Broadway, found himself looking into the muzzle of a revolver at 1 o'clock this morning. Two men were behind the pistol. Wells held up his hands and the second robber stepped into the ticket booth and picking up a bag containing $800 joined the companion who had not withdrawn the revolver from Wells' face. Word has been sent to all of the precinct police stations, but as yet the guardians of the peace have found no trace of the highwaymen.

Wants to Take the Veil.

Languishing in the Tombs, Nan Patterson, accused of the murder of "Caesar" Young, has taken a fancy to Sister Mary Xavier, the "prison angel" of the metropolis. To the latter she has confided all her troubles. Firm in the belief that she will be acquitted, Nan Patterson says that on the day she gains her liberty she will enter a convent. She is one of the best behaved prisoners in the Tombs and keeps to herself most of the time.

Held Old-Fashioned Celebration.

Residents of Lafayette avenue, Allegheny, held an old-fashioned "community" celebration yesterday in front of engine house No. 10. In the afternoon addresses were made by the Rev. David McAllister and William H. Reed. During the evening athletic contests were participated in by the neighborhood boys, followed by an elaborate display of fireworks. A string orchestra and a quartet furnished music. The celebration was in charge of Roger Hasell, Frank Stratton, Lew Thompson, George Maxwell, Fred Maxwell and G. C. Thompson.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Uncover when the flag goes by, boys.
'Tis freedom's starry banner that you greet.
Flag famed in song and story,
Long may it wave, Old Glory,
The flag that has never known defeat.
—Charles L. Benjamin.

The American eagle has passed another anniversary and entered upon its—say do you know how old it is or what year of its age this is?

A little figuring with a pencil or in your head will settle the point, and if you do it yourself you may remember it longer than if somebody tells you.

Anyway, the Fourth is past and we are hastening on toward the twelfth, when the yellow flag will float on high for a day, and the thrilling strains of "Boyne Water" take the place of "Marching Through Georgia."

However, that is neither here nor there. Are you satisfied with your conduct yesterday, and are you glad you were where you were and as you were?

It would hardly be the proper thing to ask you what it was all about, or why you did it. It is enough to know it was the Fourth of July and that it comes but once a year and that everybody gets twisted more or less, giving and taking a whole lot that they would not stand for on any other day in the year.

* * * * *

It was a glorious day anyhow and if we are none the better for it we have only ourselves to blame, since there were opportunities of all sorts, sizes and fitness—anything from a shooting cracker to a sunstroke, a ride on a merry-go-round or in an ambulance or a morgue wagon.

With such field and scope who couldn't have a great time—any sort of an old time? And who hadn't such a time? You may not care to tell what sort of a time you had, nor is it your bounden duty to do so, which may be fortunate for all concerned.

That enthusiastic patriots or patriotic enthusiasts should cut loose and do things on the natal day of our pet bird is most natural, or at least not entirely unnatural; therefore, you need not offer excuses nor tender apologies. In short, you needn't say a word, for you don't have to.

Of course, you have the high privilege guaranteed to every American of thinking it over. And since thoughts are private property you may enjoy them or not, just as you please, and all without fear of being made afraid.

And maybe it will be well enough for you to think it over today, and file your thoughts away for future reference.

* * * * *

Were you here before the war?

Well, then is when the Fourth was celebrated appropriately and gloriously, too. There wasn't nearly as much shooting as there is now, but there was more oratory. And it was the real thing. None of your namby-pamby speeches, nor an alleged poem, nor anything of the sort, but genuine native oratory of the sort that made the welkin ring and the hills resound.

The native orator, home reared and trained in the woods, was hard to beat. He couldn't be talked down, nor shut up. His voice had been cultivated in the fields gee-hawing ox teams, whoa-hawing horses and calling up the cows and pigs.

He may have gone to town and learned to be a lawyer, or he may have turned to be a preacher, or a doctor, but he was still the natural orator.

It is not really necessary for a natural orator to know a whole lot, for people do not go to hear him spout wisdom, but hear him juggle words, draw comic pictures, or pathetic or pretty. One of his strong holds was the British lion's tail, and the more fancy twists he could give it and the wider he could induce the American eagle to spread its wings, the greater orator was he.

This was before the war.

* * * * *

You may poke fun at patriotism before the war, but there is no gainsaying the fact that it was the real thing. Flags were not nearly as numerous then as now, but Old Glory was the pride of every heart.

Nor was it at every countryside celebration that you would see a flag, because they were so scarce, and most of those to be seen were the home-made sort. But these had been made by as loyal, loving women as was Betsy Ross, who is credited with having made the first one. Nor was it used as a mere decoration. It meant something not only to the one who had made it, but to everyone who saw it.

Don't you remember how the sight of the flag sent a thrill to your heart and caused you to want to yell right out loud and strong, before the war?

Do young fellows feel that way now when Old Glory breaks upon their sight? Or has it become so common and even so commonplace that it has lost its power to thrill and to give one that choking feeling which usually precedes the beginning of a noble or a daring deed?

It had that effect before the war, at the beginning of the war, throughout the war and at the close of the war.

* * * * *

Yes, it seems as if the people had more respect for Old Glory before the war than they have now, but it may only be a seeming. At least it wouldn't be safe for anyone to offer it an insult, either in public or private. And if any foreign power should attempt to pull it down Young America would rise in swarms instead of legions, the nation's coffers would overflow with gold and the very heavens ring with patriotic psalms, hymns and spiritual songs.

No, we haven't forgotten, but let us learn to take off our hats when Old Glory goes by, lest we forget.

Off with your hat as the flag goes by!
And let the heart have its say;
You're man enough for a tear in your eye,
That you will not wipe away.

You're man enough for a thrill that goes
To your very finger-tips—
Ay! the lump just then in your throat that rose
Spoke more than your parted lips.

Lift up the boy on your shoulder high,
And show him the faded shred;
Those stripes would be red as the sunset sky
If death could have dyed them red.

Off with your hat as the flag goes by!
Uncover the youngster's head;
Teach him to hold it holy and high
For the sake of its sacred dead.
—H. C. Bunner.

* * * * *

From away down south, where the war was, comes the glad news that Old Glory is up there—up far and above all other banners and flags. These people never could forget it, and they never ceased to admire it, although they may have hated the cause it represented during the war.

Now that the war is over, long over, but not forgotten, these people are gathered beneath the capacious folds of the most glorious flag on earth.

The poet of the people of the south country knows what the folks down there feel and think, and he tells us what it is:

She's up there—Old Glory—where it shines are spent;
She dazzles the nation with ripples of red;
And she'll wave for us living, or droop o'er us dead—
The flag of our country forever!

She's up there—Old Glory—no tyrant-dealt scars
And the stripes like red signals of liberty gleam;
And we dare for her, living, or dream the last dream,
'Neath the flag of our country forever!

She's up there—Old Glory—no tyrant-dealt scars,
No blur on her brightness, no stain on her stars!
The brave blood of heroes hath crimsoned her bars,
She's the flag of our country forever!
—Frank L. Stanton.

Can't Beat Us.

The British visitor looked bored.

"But where's your lovers' lane?" he asked, rather peevishly.

We looked at him in open-eyed wonder.

"Lovers'-lane?" we repeated.

"Great heavens! Man!" he cried. "Have you no lovers' lane? Why, every little village at home has a lovers' lane—some romantic spot where a chap meets his girl, you know, and"—

"O-o-oh!" we cried with great relief. "We call it Main street over here!"—New York Evening Sun.

Echoes of the Day

THE STROLLER.

In the doorway of one of those bleak tenement houses in Allegheny, whose only outlook is upon grimy factories in front and dreary sandhills behind, sat a 5-year-old mite of a chap yesterday afternoon. There were no decorations apparent in this section of the city, and the absence of noise betokened the fact that Fourth of July explosives were equally scarce. But the little fellow possessed a vivid imagination which had supplied him with a happy expedient in place of real gunpowder. From somewhere he had picked up an exploded cannon cracker. To this he would apply an imaginary piece of punk and then, casting it from him, he would wait a respectable length of time for the fuse to burn, when he would let out a terrific vocal "bang!" Time and again he repeated this "make believe" until at last it attracted the attention of a passing youngster who carried a generous bunch of firecrackers from which he was leaving a sputtering trail as he walked along.

"Ain't you got any real crackers?" he inquired of the lad in the doorway.

The little fellow shook his head ruefully.

"Nor even any torpedoes?" pursued his questioner.

Another silent shake of the head.

The larger lad looked regretfully at his own possessions, but only for a moment.

"Here, kid," said he, suddenly thrusting the bunch of red cylinders into the little fellow's fists, "take mine, but be careful and don't hold 'em in your hand when you shoot 'em off."

And away he walked, bravely whistling with his hands in his empty pockets, leaving a small chap dancing up and down with delight and yelling exultantly for "ma."

Out on the California avenue line, at the drinking fountain whose legend tells you it was erected by the women of Bellevue, a car stopped to allow the motorman and conductor to get a drink. Ranged on the sidewalk near the track was a score of boys and girls whose eager, expectant faces plainly showed that they were waiting for something to come off. What it was became apparent when the trolley men came back from the fountain. Scattered thickly along the tracks in front of the car for a couple of rods were a lot of torpedoes to which the juveniles had contributed from their carefully hoarded stock. But the prodigal sacrifice was going to be worth the game. What a deafening clatter the explosives would make! Already some of the women passengers on the car were holding their ears in anticipation of the racket. Then it was that those two street car men proved themselves to be the meanest that ever happened. Running up the track they cruelly kicked off every torpedo and then, laughing hard-heartedly in the faces of a row of indignant and vituperative youngsters, they made off with their car.

Further along toward the city, the occupants of the car were afforded a fine illustration of the good example set by some of the grown-ups in the movement for a sane Fourth. On the veranda of a highly-decorated home, surrounded by half a dozen children, the head of the house minus coat and vest was taking things comfortably in a rocking chair. In his hand he held a huge pistol, such as are used for shooting off blank cartridges of the largest size, and as the car arrived opposite him, he let off a volley of ear-splitting detonations. The youngsters applauded uproariously and as the car turned around the bend the child of a larger growth was hurriedly filling up the revolver for his next fusillade.

At another spot, before the car reached the city limits, a gang of a dozen boys had dragged a cannon into the road, within a few feet of the tracks. It was none of your small affairs, but a big, ugly piece of artillery entirely capable of killing the whole crowd had it exploded. Waiting until the car was in range, these amateurs in gunnery let off a discharge that went roaring across the hills and threatened to blow the passengers out of their seats.

It was noticeable to many persons yesterday that the noise downtown was very moderate compared with the bedlam let loose in suburban points. These places, removed from the surveillance of the city police, afforded instances without number of flagrant violations of the law regarding the sale and use of explosives. Persons who thought to escape the racket which they believed would engulf their homes in the city, by going out into the suburbs, found to their disgust that they would much better have remained where they were. The experience of one couple was pitiable. Leaving their home in the East End bright and early they sought refuge in a village whose chief features are its extraordinarily large population of children and a big orphan asylum. The rest can readily be imagined. Only there was no rest. Bombarded all the way down to the city and out to the suburbs, the fleeing pair arrived at their destination just as the racket which had been started by the village youngsters at 6 o'clock in the morning had swelled to a roar that threatened to split the skies.

"Access on Pronoun."

Two negro women boarded a Pennsylvania avenue car at Seventh street. One was a large, dark skinned woman, flashily dressed, the other was a small, yellow woman, wearing a modest gown.

The women were discussing a mutual friend, Mr. Jenks. The large woman spoke in loud tones and pronounced the name of the man as though it were spelled J-i-n-k-s. It was evident from the expression on the face of the smaller woman that she was annoyed by the loud talking and mispronunciation of her friend's name. Finally she protested:

"You speak of Mr. Jenks as though his name were spelled with an 'i' instead of an 'e.'"

"Oh, yes," the large woman exclaimed, "I perceive you puts the access on the pronoun."—Washington Times.

Helpful Suggestions.

"So?" hoarsely sighed Hector Montmorency. "So? You spurn me? And I must go forth—go out into the bitter world—with despair and unutterable woe written on my face? What is left for me to do?"

"You might go into a dime museum as the man with the postal card face," she murmured.—Catholic Standard.

Anticipations.

"Why can't you marry me? It's true I'm not enormously rich, still I have an income plenty big enough to support us nicely."

"Yes, but think how ridiculously small the alimony allowed out of it will be."—Town Topics.

Changed Conditions.

"I'll bet you don't hold your wife on your knee as much now as when you were first married," sneered the old bachelor.

"Well," replied the man who had been paying the freight bills for nearly a year, "to tell the honest truth, she sits on me more now than she did then."—Chicago News.

Tommy—I've hurt my h-hand in the h-hot water.

Bridget—Shure, thin it serves you right. You should have felt the water before you put your hand in!—Punch.

The Death Roll

William Thompson Harris.

William Thompson Harris, who for 16 years has been prominent in Washington social and financial circles, died suddenly Sunday night of heart disease at his home in I street, Washington, D. C. He was 44 years old. Mr. Harris was born in New Orleans and educated in Switzerland and in other European countries. He lived in Europe for many years and then returned to New Orleans, where he engaged in the cotton business. Since making his home in Washington he had acted in the capacity of financial and confidential agent for several important estates. Among others he had charge of the W. W. Corcoran estate. He was a member of the Metropolitan club of Washington. Mr. Harris is survived by his widow, who was Miss Virginia Niles, daughter of the late Stephen V. Niles, a Washington lawyer.

Mrs. William H. Taylor.

Mrs. William H. Taylor, aged 75, died yesterday morning at her home, No. 820 North Craig street, of heart disease. She is survived by her husband, who is a retired Pennsylvania lines west employe, and a son, H. L. Taylor of Indiana county. The deceased was born in Pittsburgh and had resided here all her life. She was a member of the Bellefield Presbyterian church.

Obituary Notes.

Gustavius George Watts, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustavius Watts, of No. 5041 Penn avenue, died yesterday at Mercy hospital of peritonitis.

Frank C. Rowley, a fish dealer of No. 5110 Penn avenue, died suddenly yesterday at the East End hospital of stomach trouble. His widow and son, Frank S. Rowley, are in Atlantic City. The deceased was 48 years of age and resided at No. 5041 Rippey street, East End.

Gen. Reinaldo Flores died Sunday at Lima, Peru. He took a prominent part in Ecuadorian politics until 1895, when the Liberal revolution overthrew the Conservatives and Gen. Flores was exiled to Peru. Gen. Flores was a son of Gen. Juan Jose Flores, a former president of Ecuador.

Henry C. Alborn, a retired farmer and miller, died at New Castle, Pa., Sunday night. He was 61 years old and was born in Germany. He was a member of the St. Paul German Lutheran church of New Castle and the owner of the Alborn flouring mill. He leaves his widow and the following children: Frank, Henry W., Charles F. and Miss Matilda Alborn of New Castle, and Mrs. Deitrick, wife of the Rev. Ivan Deitrick, of Allegheny.

PERSONALS

Ernest E. Gamble of Liverpool, England, said last night that the war between Russia and Japan is resulting in much money being spent in England. A large number of Russians are leaving their country to avoid being pressed into service. They are coming to America by way of Liverpool. Most of them work their way from Russia to England, where they purchase tickets to points in the United States. All the English-speaking people favor Japan and hope she will be victorious. While England is neutral, diplomatically speaking, yet from an individual standpoint they all wish Japan would win the present struggle. Mr. Gamble came to this country expressly to see the St. Louis fair. Before leaving he will visit Niagara and Canadian points.

Miss Alice Roes of Wheeling came to Pittsburgh yesterday to visit friends. She spent the larger part of the day in Schenley park and when she arrived at the Baltimore & Ohio station, discovered she had lost her pocketbook, containing her money and railroad fare. She was much excited over her loss and detectives were notified. They questioned her regarding her movements since she last had the pocketbook in her hands. Her answers indicated she had lost her money while coming from the park on the street cars. After about 10 minutes excitement she said she had had the pocketbook in the ladies' waiting room. She hurried back to that place and found the pocketbook just where she had been sitting.

John Aiken of Baltimore spent yesterday in Pittsburgh visiting his sister Mrs. John H. Marshall. When seen at the Baltimore & Ohio station last night he said: "Every person I see asks me if Baltimore has recovered from the fire. While the fire caused a great financial loss, yet it did not cripple business to an alarming extent. Most of the large business houses established temporary quarters in New York or Philadelphia. New buildings are being erected, most of which are better than the ones burned."

Neighbors Visiting Pittsburgh.

Residents of nearby towns at the local hotels last night were:

Monongahela House—J. E. Barnett, Washington; T. L. Weakland, Meyersdale; T. J. Crumble, Donora.

Griswold—A. F. Marsh, Irwin; James Mulligan, Ft. Marion; L. Stanley, Wheeling.

Henry—Rev. D. Lloyd, Uniontown; L. F. Bargu, Youngstown.

Newell's—H. T. Orchard, Youngstown.

Lincoln—J. E. Smith,

ALLEGED HIGHWAYMEN CAUGHT BY RANKIN MEN

Two Negroes Brought to Pittsburgh to Prevent Enraged People from Lynching Them.

Accused of Many Crimes.

Two negroes, accused of many robberies, holding up men on the highways by impersonating officers, and attacking women and girls, were arrested early yesterday morning in Rankin, and to prevent any danger of lynching were hurried to the county jail. The negroes are Thomas McCorkie, aged 30, and George Johnson, about the same age, both of Third avenue, Rankin.

For several weeks the Rankin police had complaints of the operations of two negroes who sometimes worked singly and sometimes together. Representing themselves as police, they held up persons late at night and forced them to give up all their money and valuables as forfeits for their appearance for trial.

Women and girls were attacked. A number of stores and houses in Rankin have also been robbed.

On Sunday night the Rankin police laid a trap for the highwaymen. George Logan, a young man, attired himself in women's dress, and at midnight walked through Dutchman's hollow, a lonely place. It is charged that McCorkie, wearing a false beard and mustache, the badge of a private detective agency, and holding the end of a billiard cue as a mace, approached him. As the negro stopped Logan three Rankin policemen, who had been hiding in the bushes, pounced upon the negro, and after a hard scuffle overpowered him. He was taken to his home, and there Johnson was also arrested.

Although it was very early in the morning when the negroes were taken to the Rankin lockup, the people gathered and talked of a lynching bee. The prisoners were then hurried to Pittsburgh for safekeeping. Highway robbery, burglary, impersonating an officer and other charges were entered against them. In addition, the fathers of two young girls are expected to make charges against the negroes.

WAR TO LAST TWO YEARS LONGER

Japan Expects to Lose 50,000 Men in Capture of Port Arthur.

NATIVE LECTURES IN CITY

"Japan expects the war with Russia to last two years longer and that Port Arthur will be taken within a month. Three days ago I received a letter from my uncle, Admiral Takamatsu, the head of the ammunition department of the imperial government, in which he said that Japan expects to lose 50,000 men in the taking of Port Arthur," said K. Morimoto of Tokyo last night.

Mr. Morimoto is in the city to deliver a number of lectures on the Russo-Japanese war. He will give his first lecture tonight in the Reformed Church of the Ascension, Termon avenue, Allegheny, of which Rev. Albert C. Dieffenbach is pastor.

Mr. Morimoto is a graduate of the Japanese imperial university at Tokyo, and is taking a two years' post-graduate course in history at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore. He left Japan last October, on the eve of the breaking out of hostilities.

He said last night to a Gazette reporter that two cousins and three of his classmates in the imperial university had been killed in the navy. After taking his degree at Johns Hopkins he will spend two years at the university in Jena, Germany, and expects then to be fitted for a professorship at the imperial university in Tokyo. He is exempted from conscription for the war owing to defective eye-sight.

Japan has borrowed $50,000,000 from New York banks and $50,000,000 from banks in England to carry on the war, in addition to the heavy taxes levied by the government on the people in my country," said Morimoto.

"The men in the Japanese army and navy serve without pay, except the officers, while the Russians are all paid. The Russian armies are made up of the lower classes, while all classes, rich and poor, are fighting for Japan. The Russian soldiers do not have their heart in the war. They are serving only for money, while the Japanese are fighting because they want to win. I have received letters from soldiers in the army on the Yalu river and from other points, and they are all full of confidence of victory. The letters are censored and they do not tell any of the schemes of the war. It is impossible to learn how many soldiers Japan has in the field.

"The war will not end until the Japanese have taken Port Arthur and Harbin, and have strongly fortified the latter to prevent Russians invading from the north. This will take about two years more. The war is costing Japan $1,000,000 a day.

"If Japan wins it will be the leader in the east. Japan wants Manchuria and Korea to get more room for its people. The population of Japan is 49,000,000, and Manchuria and Korea are about the same size as Japan."

YOUTH KILLS ANOTHER IN Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

Son of E. E. Cline of Lima, O., Is the Victim of a Fist Fight.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LIMA, O., July 4.—(Special.)—Harold Cline, aged 20, the oldest son of E. E. Cline, a prominent oil magnate, lies dead in the palatial homestead of his father.

The murdered boy was engaged in a small quarrel in the Y. M. C. A. building with his younger brother Ralph, who was shooting fireworks, today. Edward D. Lappin, aged 21, started to act as peacemaker, when the older Cline turned upon him, landing two heavy blows. Lappin returned these with a hard punch over the heart. Cline fell like a log. He was carried into the parlors, where he died. Lappin was arrested, pleaded not guilty and was released on $2,000 bond. The murdered boy had just returned from Western university, Cleveland, where he finished his junior year. Lappin holds a position of trust in the Standard Oil Company's offices, and the families of both are well known in Lima's social world. An autopsy indicates that Cline had a diseased heart.

RAISULI LEADS REVOLT.

Fighting Occurs Daily in the Vicinity of Tangier, Morocco.

LONDON, July 5.—The Tangier correspondent of the Daily Mail under date of July 4, says:

"French officials here admit that the crisis was never more critical. Fighting occurs daily in this vicinity. Raisuli is only two hours from Tangier and is collecting men. Yesterday he attacked three villagers and looted their cattle. The town guards are helpless. When the outbreak comes there will be an appalling sacrifice of European life to the fanaticisms of the Moors. The sultan has cut down the soldiers' pay by one-half and the disaffected soldiers are deserting and joining the freebooting bands."

START FOR PITTSBURGH.

The Wabash Special Train With Guests Will Arrive Home from St. Louis Today.

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—(Special)—The party of Pittsburghers on the Wabash special started for home at 11 o'clock this evening. The train did not carry all that it brought here. Quite a number found the fair too attractive to be deserted after two days' acquaintance and have stayed over for a longer visit.

Dwight Carson, superintendent of dining car service of the Wabash, has made arrangements to breakfast the party at Toledo. A generous lunch will be put aboard at that point. They will reach Pittsburgh tomorrow evening.

WILLIAM L. ROSS.

Bedillion Won the Cup.

At the shoot of the Sewickley Valley Gun club at Sewickley yesterday the handsome loving cup was won by Edward Bedillion with a score of 17 out of a possible 25. He was shooting one yard in front of scratch men. Thirty men were entered in the contest, and low scores were made by all, as it was necessary to face the sun. It was discovered yesterday that some time on Sunday a valuable gun belonging to George Sommerville had been stolen from the clubhouse.

FOUR ARE DROWNED.

Hundreds of Spectators See Little Children Die in Lake in Michigan.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MUSKEGON, MICH., July 4.—A sailboat containing seven pleasure-seekers was capsized in Muskegon lake today, and four of the occupants were drowned in view of hundreds of spectators.

The party consisted of Albert Kennicott of the Shaw Electric Crane works, his wife and three children, Lindel, 4 years of age, and two other little girls, aged 3 years and 13 months, respectively, and two sisters, Misses Adeline and Gorgette Emerson.

PITTSBURGHER AND CHILD ARE DROWNED AT DETROIT

DETROIT, July 4.—August Delmore and infant child, of Pittsburgh, were drowned in the Detroit river at the foot of Wayne street, late tonight. Mr. Delmore, carrying the child, walked off the dock while hurrying, 10 minutes late, to see if by some chance the Cleveland boat might have been delayed in starting. Mrs. Delmore was following close behind. After several had brought a rowboat to the spot and life preservers were thrown to Mr. Delmore, but he failed to reach them and soon sank. Mr. and Mrs. Delmore were on their way home after spending a few days at Midland, Mich.

SUFFERED NINE YEARS

WITH CATARRH OF THE STOMACH. PE-RU-NA CURED.

A Rear-Admiral's Praise for Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Philip Hichborn, Rear-Admiral U. S. Navy, Washington, D. C., Supervisor of the building of the leading battleships of the Navy, in a recent letter says:

"After the use of your Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic."—Philip Hichborn.

Our files contain hundreds of testimonials similar to the above, from men who are prominent in national affairs.

Thousands of people have catarrh of the stomach, or bowels, or other pelvic organs so prevalent in summer, and do not know it.

We have thousands of testimonials like that of Mr. Bunker touching the merits of Peruna as a remedy for all catarrhal diseases.

Do not delay. Buy Peruna today, for a day gained means a day nearer recovery.

Mr. N. E. Bunker, Newton, Cal., writes:

"For nine years I was sick with chronic catarrh of the stomach, could scarcely eat enough to keep me alive. Hardly had a natural taste in my mouth the whole time. I took all sorts of treatment, but without any benefit, and the doctors said it was only a question of time when I would succumb to the disease. By accident I commenced taking Peruna. After three months' treatment I was completely cured. I could eat anything I wanted, and always felt well afterward.

"I have recommended this wonderful medicine to many of my friends and will always be glad to speak a good word for Peruna, as it did so much for me."—N. E. Bunker.

Dyspepsia Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Miss Amanda Moore, Marshall, Tex., writes:

"I have suffered for several years past with acute dyspepsia and after trying several remedies without any help, decided that it was my fate to suffer through this life. Last winter I took Peruna for severe catarrh, the effects of a cold, and you can imagine my joy when I found that this wonderful remedy not only cured my catarrh, but helped my dyspepsia.

"I took three bottles and found myself well and strong. I can now eat heartily and have gained twelve pounds and have good reason to praise Peruna."—Miss Amanda Moore.

Use Pe-ru-na for the Catarrhal Diseases of Summer.

The diseases most common in summer are those of the stomach, bowels and other pelvic organs. A remedy that cures all the catarrhal derangements of these organs should certainly be considered a household necessity during this season. Peruna is the very remedy. A book of testimonials, containing hundreds of cures, sent free to any address.

A symptom of catarrh of the stomach is sour stomach and heavy feeling after eating.

JAPANESE MOVE UPON LIAO-YANG

Will Make Frantic Attempt to Take Hai-Cheng Before the Rainy Season.

STILL HOLDING DALIN PASS

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1904, by New York Herald Co.)

ST. PETERSBURG, July 4.—News has reached here that the Japanese, after seemingly abandoning the idea of rushing toward Liao Yang by a northern road, once again started, considerably refording their right flank with the evident intention of preventing Gen. Kuropatkin sending too great an army towards Hai-Cheng, which place it is imagined here the Japanese will make frantic efforts to take before the rainy season sets in. Gen. Kuroki's advance guard forming a considerable force, has gone beyond Motien pass past Lantseskan, about 15 miles from Liao Yang, but here it is supposed they do not dare capture the latter place. An imperial order just issued causes considerable agitation here, as it contains a further calling out of reserves at St. Petersburg.

Military experts believe the center of gravity has again shifted to Port Arthur, where close operations are expected to engage most of the attention of the Japanese until the conclusion of the rainy season permits the resumption of the campaign in Southern Manchuria.

The war office believes that a further advance on the Ta-Tche-Kiao is impossible in view of the powerful resistance which can be made by the Russians combined with the great difficulties of transportation over rain-sodden roads. Desultory fighting, however, is likely to continue for the possession of the passes which are particularly valuable to either belligerent for the purpose of obtaining information regarding the other's movements.

Japanese Hold Dalin Pass.

The Japanese still hold Dalin pass, while the Russians have captured Outaifa pass. The similarity of names led to the premature report of a Japanese retreat from Dalin pass.

Major General Mistchenko is harassing and driving back the Japanese between Shi-Yen and Kai-Chau, already inflicting a loss of about 900 in killed or wounded. The Japanese are displaying the greatest weakness at this point, owing to their distance from supplies and to the prevalence of dysentery.

The authorities are manifesting much concern over the appearance of disease in the Japanese outposts and garrisons, and it is feared that the Russians camping in the tracks of the Japanese may become infected. It is feared also that if cholera is raging at Feng-Tang-Cheng it will be almost impossible to prevent it spreading to Liao-Yang.

The rainy season is undoubtedly in favor of the Russians, enabling them to bring up further reinforcements, but it is feared that it may also entail great mortality.

The Russian losses in killed or wounded so far number 8,000. Many more have been in hospitals, but no epidemics have yet been reported.

Results of the admiralty have tested five different types of submarine vessels, and, according to apparently reliable information, have purchased the protector which is now at Cronstadt and one Holland boat now en route. Ten torpedo boats are being built at Riga.

Thirty-two carloads of naval ammunition have been dispatched to the far east.

Gen. Sakharoff Reports.

The general staff has received the following dispatch, dated July 3, from Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff:

"On July 2 the enemy's advance guard in the Kai-Chau district retreated southward and occupied a line nine miles northeast of Sinchen. Sinchen is occupied by an infantry detachment.

"According to our information the enemy has at least 30,000 troops concentrated around Sin-Yen.

"The Japanese are now occupying their original positions at Dalin pass. No movement beyond Dalin pass toward Hai-Cheng is observable."

TOKYO, July 4.—It is reported that Russia has, through France, offered to surrender Port Arthur to Japan, together with its ships and arms there, providing the garrison is freed. A confirmation of the report is impossible, and it is generally regarded to be untrue.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 4.—6:10 p. m. The authorities here scout the Tokyo story of the proposed surrender of Port Arthur to the Japanese.

LONDON, July 5.—(Copyrighted Cable.) The Daily Express publishes a telegram from Tokyo, saying:

Admiral Skrydloff, it is believed, is about to embark on the desperate venture of trying to reach Port Arthur. For that purpose the destroyer Burikoff was sent out by Admiral Witzeft and reached Niuchwang, as already reported. It has now sailed away secretly, and although the greatest care has been taken to conceal its movements, it is believed that Admiral Skrydloff was on board.

It is likely that when the Burukoff reaches the vicinity of Port Arthur the fleet will make a sortie to take him on board a battleship and to cover the entrance of the destroyer.

NO BATTLE FOUGHT ON DAY CRUELTY IS CHARGED

Japanese Chief of Staff Makes Convincing Reply to Russian Accusations.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 4.—The Japanese minister has received a cablegram from the Tokyo government announcing that the chief-of-staff of the second army on the Liao-Yang battlefields reports that there was no encounter between the Japanese and Russian armies on June 12 at any place along all the lines, not even a skirmish occurring between scouting parties.

This report is in reply to the specific accusation that three Russians, left wounded on the field on that day, were treated savagely and inhumanly by Japanese cavalry. The chief-of-staff adds that no such act was committed by Japanese soldiers, either then or after the battle of June 14, but that on the contrary the Russian wounded on the latter occasion were treated precisely like the Japanese, and that they as well as the uninjured prisoners, seemed deeply impressed with the kindness shown them. The Russian dead, the cablegram says, were treated with respect and were buried in due course.

Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, said he was certain his government would not have dignified this rumor by a denial had it not been for the persistency with which it has been reiterated and even amplified by a section of the European press. The treatment of Russian prisoners by the Japanese, he said, is a matter of common knowledge, and the Russians themselves have testified to its kind and humane character.

ITALIANS WERE MOBBED.

'Squire Needling Saved Them. Shooting in Fun Causes Serious Trouble.

'Squire A. J. Needling of Millvale prevented a riot in Dewey grove, Millvale, yesterday afternoon. Lucien Berloni and Peter Falino, Italians, came near being mobbed by an infuriated crowd that thought one of the men had killed Mike Keetravick, a Croat.

The Italians had been celebrating by shooting blank cartridges. One of the men shot at the Croat in fun, but the shot left powder marks on Keetravick's face and the crowd thought a murder had been committed. The Italians ran and were pursued several rods. 'Squire Needling was walking by and dispersed the mob, otherwise the Italians would have been handled roughly.

Several physicians were summoned, but the injured man went home before doctors arrived. The powder lodged in his nose and will not be serious unless lockjaw sets in. The foreigners were from the South Side. They went to the grove to spend the Fourth.

WRECKERS CAUSE WABASH DISASTER

Switch Not Used All Day, and a Freight Passed Safely Shortly Before.

THE VICTIMS NOW NUMBER 19

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—According to information received by President Ramsey of the Wabash today, the dead in yesterday's wreck at Litchfield, Ill., now number 19. Two of the injured died during the night and two more are expected to die.

The dead are as follows: Mrs. Florence Smith, Mrs. Perkins, Charles Galaise and Harry M. Districh, all of Chicago; Miss C. F. Luther, Milwaukee; Isaac R. Mills, Decatur; Ubald St. Piere, Montreal, Canada; Jacob Barder, Park River, N. D.; L. A. Eichstadt, Chicago; James Sanford, engineer, Decatur; the Rev. W. M. Mills, Bridgeton, N. Y.; Charles Ward, Chicago; H. L. Graves, train dispatcher, Decatur; W. F. Smith, fireman, Decatur; Richie Noack, boy about 8, Chicago; four unidentified men.

Among the injured are William Archibald and Georga Archibald, Honeoye Falls, N. Y. Both have broken legs. Mrs. Anna Kenyon, Kingston, N. Y., is suffering from a badly bruised leg and her face is cut. Miss Eliza Townsend, Bridgeport, Conn., sustained slight injuries.

Among those on the wrecked train who escaped injury was J. A. Buggie of Chicago, who arrived in St. Louis today. Mr. Buggie said:

"It was much more terrible than one can realize. The first reports published do not begin to describe the terrible scenes. I personally assisted in caring for the bodies of 15 of those who were already dead or who died later. The work of the citizens of Litchfield and of the uninjured passengers of the wrecked train cannot be too highly complimented. Almost without exception all the passengers who were able helped to rescue and care for those who could not care for themselves.

"Many lost their lives trying to save others, and one poor fellow, who had been uninjured in the wreck, was killed in trying to rescue some of those in one of the wrecked cars. As he approached the car it toppled on him, crushing his skull and pinning him to the ground. The flames crept nearer every moment. Nothing could be done for him, and I turned away in horror, unable to bear the sight.

"Too much praise cannot be given the men who pushed away from the burning train a freight car loaded with powder, which threatened the lives of those who had escaped the first catastrophe. A number of men loosened the brakes of the car and pushed it away where there was no danger of it catching fire."

Edward T. Clapp, chief clerk in the office of the president of the Wabash Railroads Company, said today that from all that could be learned the misplaced switch at Litchfield was tampered with by some unknown person.

States Attorney L. V. Hill of Hillsboro is making an investigation into the circumstances of the wreck, and it is not improbable that arrests may be ordered. The open switch is a mystery which the officials are trying to solve. According to the Wabash station agent, Charles A. Cornean, the switch had not been used during the entire day by trainmen. A short time before the wreck a southbound fast passenger train passed over the track in safety.

"Some one turned that switch at Litchfield," said President Ramsey of the Wabash.

"Whether it was one who had a spite against the railroad or one who was merely crazy, I do not know. If it did not seem like idle talk, I would say that no reward is too heavy to be offered for the apprehension of the one whose stealthy hand opened that switch. We are awaiting the result of the coroner's action. We will offer a reward, of course. Yet it seems like hunting a needle in a haystack. The one who was responsible for the disaster had plenty of time to get away and hide his tracks.

"From the facts that I can gather it is my belief that the train's speed did not exceed 40 miles an hour when it struck the switch."

KILLED ON THE TRACKS.

More Than One Train Had Passed Over the Body of Pavo Doleneo.

The body of Pavo Doleneo, aged 30, of Industry, was found beside the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at Wilmerding early yesterday morning by a track walker. The body was mangled to such an extent as to make it evident that more than one train had passed over it.

Richard G. Nicholson, a ged 15, of 812 McCandless avenue, was drowned in the Allegheny river, at the foot of Fifty-first street, Saturday night, and the body was found yesterday, a few yards from where the accident occurred. The boy had been playing on a sand barge and fell into the water.

Frank Guilfoyle, aged 50, of 6239 Luther street, was found dead in the cellar of his home yesterday afternoon by Thomas Monohan of 5110 Keystone street, a friend. Death was due to heart disease.

Boy Choked by Foreigner.

While sitting in front of his father's carpet store, on Penn avenue near Twelfth street, yesterday afternoon, Isadore Feariman, aged 4 years, was choked by a man who gave his name as John Short. The boy is in a serious condition. The man was locked up as a suspicious person. He is a foreigner and refused to say where he lived.

TWO STEPS.

The Last One Helps the First.

A sick coffee drinker must take two steps to be rid of his troubles and get strong and well again.

The first is to cut off coffee absolutely.

That removes the destroying element. The next step is to take liquid food (and that is Postum Food Coffee) that has in it the elements nature requires to change the blood corpuscles from pale pink or white to rich, red and good red blood, builds good, strong and healthy cells in place of the broken down cells destroyed by coffee. With well boiled Postum Food Coffee to chift to, both these steps are easy and pleasant. The experience of a Georgian proves how important both are.

"From 1872 to the year 1900 my wife and I had both been afflicted with sick or nervous headache and at times we suffered untold agony. We were coffee drinkers and did not know how to get away from it, for the habit is hard to quit.

"But in 1900 I read of a case similar to ours where Postum Coffee was used in place of the old coffee and a complete cure resulted, so I concluded to get some and try it.

"The result was, after three days' use of Postum in place of the coffee I never had a symptom of the old trouble and in five months I had gained from 145 pounds to 168 pounds.

"My friends asked me almost daily what wrought the change. My answer always is, leaving off coffee and drinking Postum in its place.

"We have many friends who have been benefited by Postum.

"As to whether or not I have stated the facts truthfully I refer you to the Bank of Carrollton or any business firm in that city where I have lived for many years and am well known." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason."

OFFICERS HAVE BLOODY FIGHT WITH RUSSIANS

Quell Riot Arising at Wedding Feast at Irwin, Pa.—Arrests Were Made.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

IRWIN, PA., July 4.—A wedding in the Russian miners' quarters yesterday ended in a riot. Local officers, who went to quell it, were injured so severely that they required the attention of surgeons. There were about 25 wedding guests and 40 kegs of beer. Late last night the men began fighting and all used knives, bricks and clubs. A hurry call was sent for officers and half a dozen responded, led by Burgess C. C. Rodgers and Constable Charles Meerhoff. When the police appeared they were attacked by the mob, and for an hour a fierce fight waged. The officers were overpowered, but they were reinforced by citizens, and after several shots had been fired at the Russians they scattered. Six of the leaders were arrested and two are still at large, handcuffed together. Among the rioters locked up is Reuben Bloch, an interpreter, who is charged with inciting the riot.

Each of the officers carries marks of the fray. Burgess Rodgers was stabbed in the head and body and his clothing shows where knife thrusts were made. Charles Meerhoff, Jr., received an ugly scalp wound. Officer Sylvester and Constable Meerhoff were pounded with clubs and stones. The rioters in the lockup show many marks of the fight, one of them suffering from a bullet wound in his head.

Women who work, whether in the house, store, office or factory, very rarely have the ability to stand the strain. The case of Miss Frankie Orser, of Boston, Mass., is interesting to all women, and adds further proof that woman's great friend in need is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered misery for several years. My back ached and I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches. I would often wake from a restful sleep in such pain and misery that it would be hours before I could close my eyes again. I dreaded the long nights and weary days. I could do no work. I consulted different physicians hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicines did not cure me, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was highly recomended to me. I am glad that I did so, for I soon found that it was the medicine for my case. Very soon I was rid of every ache and pain and restored to perfect health. I feel splendid, have a fine appetite, and have gained in weight a lot."—Miss Frankie Orser, 14 Warrenton St., Boston, Mass.

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak, sick and discouraged, and exhausted with each day's work. Some derangement of the feminine organs is reponsible for this exhaustion, following any kind of work or effort. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as it has thousands of other women.

The case of Mrs. Lennox, which follows, proves this.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Last winter I broke down suddenly and had to seek the advice of a doctor. I felt sore all over, with a pounding in my head, and a dizziness which I had never experienced before. I had a miserable appetite, nothing tasted good, and gradually my health broke down completely. The doctor said I had female weakness, but, although I took his medicine faithfully, I found no relief.

"After two months I decided to try what a change would do for me, and as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was strongly recommended to me I decided to try it. Within three days I felt better, my appetite returned, and I could sleep. In another week I was able to sit up part of the day, and in ten days more I was well. My strength had returned, I gained fourteen pounds, and felt better and stronger than I had for years. I gratefully acknowledge its merits. Very sincerely yours, Mrs. Bert E. Lennox, 120 East 4th St., Dixon, Ill."

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

Chicago at Exposition park.
New York at Philadelphia.
Brooklyn at Boston.
Cincinnati at St. Louis.

Nearly 25,000 people spent the glorious Fourth over at the ball park and watched the Pirates fittingly celebrate the day by taking two games from one of their strongest rivals, the Chicago team, the morning game 7 to 2, and the afternoon contest 11 to 6. Miller pitched the morning game for the champions and Lynch the afternoon contest. Both games were of the lively order and just the kind to please the large crowds.

The crowd that attended the games was a typical holiday one. Nearly every male spectator was accompanied by his wife or his best girl, and when the crowd was seated the sight was a pretty one indeed. The men were comfortable and the women had a difficult to pick out the men from the women. It was also a fact that nearly every man had with him a bona producer in the way of a pistol or a bunch of firecrackers, and every run made by the local team or every good play made was greeted with a volley of shots that made one think a sham battle was in progress. The order of the management that the use of big firecrackers be excluded was pretty generally obeyed and few of them were shot off.

Notwithstanding the great crowd the arrangements made for the safety and comfort of everybody by Secretary Locke were so complete that there was not the slightest confusion and there was not an unpleasant incident to mar the enjoyment of the day. The big crowd was a good-natured one, ready to cheer every good play made by the visitors as well as the home team. At both games the playing left nothing to be desired. Wolfe, who was pitching a pretty game, was rendered hors du combat in the second inning by a liner hitting him on the knee cap, and the player who did it was the only one to whom the locals regarded as one of the weakest hitters in the league. Phelps was on second and Miller drove one of Weimer's straight balls on a line over second base. Wolfe had no time to escape the ball, which hit him on the right knee cap, sending him to the ground. The ball bounded back to King on the foul line and Miller was thrown out at first.

Weimer lay on the ground writhing in pain. He was carried to the players' bench and later he was taken to the clubhouse by the Chicago players. Corridon was called upon to start off the Pirates, and he did it until the fourth round, when Clarke's outfit opened up on him for fair. Seven runs and seven hits, with a walk and a base on balls, were registered off the latter, was the damage done to Corridon in this inning. Wagner opened the inning with a two-bagger, and at his second appearance at the bat he had Corridon at his mercy for another two-sacker. Sebring and Ritchey also found the ball for two sacks each in this round, and the large crowd made merry.

The crowd was in a happy humor because the Pirates were winning and there were enough fast plays to cause their cheering and bring off a million pistols. Jimmy Sebring came up and opened the ball by making Corridon hard for fly and doubling up Williams at first, and Bransfield worked a double play that looked good to the fans.

When Manager Clarke walked in from the field just before time for the start of the afternoon game in order to make his selection of pitchers there was such a loud demand that Miss Lynch, the pretty boy, be given the assignment that Clarke could not find heart to refuse the almost unanimous request, and Lynch walked to the rubber amidst an ovation as has hardly ever been tendered a ball player. Lynch has been suffering with a sore arm, but he was just as anxious to pitch as the crowd was to see him, and while his delivery was hit a bit harder than it has been in any of the games he was worked in, yet he managed to win his game, and that was all the crowd wanted.

Lynch was as steady as a clock until the sixth inning, when he delevoped a streak of wildness that threatened a lot of damage, but, as usual when the bases were filled with runners, he was master of the situation. Briggs, who was the Chicago pitching selection for the afternoon, had a delivery that just suited the Pirates, and hits and runs were made with such frequency that the visiting pitcher was forced to mount up to enough runs to win half a dozen games. The batting for the afternoon was done by Leach, Clarke, Wagner and Sebring for the Pirates and Chance for the visitors.

The Pirates started in with a run in the opening inning, when Leach drove the ball to deep middle field for three bases and scored on a double by Clarke. Smith scored in the third when he singled and got around on singles by Lynch and Beaumont. Three runs were scored in the fifth on three hits and an error, and the same was repeated in the eighth as a result of four hits, which included a three-bagger by Wagner, a double by Sebring and two singles by Bransfield and Leach. A double by Smith, a single by Sebring by Sebring and a single by Smith produced the last two runs.

The Chicago runs were the result of a bunching of hits and an error by Ritchey. The scores:

AFTERNOON GAME.

The New Yorks won their eighteenth straight victory this afternoon by defeating the Philadelphias in a one-sided contest, 11 to 3. The home teams outclassed the visitors at every point. Mitchell was hit for 18 safe hits, while Matthewson, pitching in relief in the ninth, was almost invincible. The New York's stole eight bases and otherwise played a hustling game. Gilbert had 12 chances in the afternoon game as well as 12 in the morning, all of which he accepted. Score:

HANDSOME CLUB HOUSE OPENED AT OAKMONT

Event Was Celebrated by Races on the River, and There Was Some Clever Sport.

The opening of the new $8,000 club house of the Oakmont Boat club was celebrated yesterday with races in the afternoon and a supper and ball in the evening. The club's fine home is beautifully furnished and contains a reception hall, ballroom, bowling alleys, billiard room, parlors and kitchen. In the basement are private lockers for the members. Yesterday's sports began with a sailing race over a one-mile course on the Allegheny river near the clubhouse. Four boats entered. The contestants finished in the following order: Livingstone, steered by Alexander; Piers, assisted by Hamilton; Brown, assisted by Elliott. Livingstone made the mile in 14 minutes and Piers in 25 minutes. Brown did not finish the course.

The one-mile single oar race for a silver loving cup was won by Hamilton. Johnson was second and Dodd third. Schnadel and Keating won the double-oared race for a silver cup given by W. T. Brill of Oakmont. The three other teams in the contest finished in the following order: Budd and Johnston, Brill and Tomelson, Laird and Brown.

The smoking set offered by the club for the winner in the tandem-pair swimming race was taken by Hamilton. Tomelson was second. Keating and Elliott started, but dropped out.

No time was kept except in the sailing race. The Duquesne Club of Verona were the guests of the Oakmont club at the euchre and dance given in the evening.

HOMESTEAD WINS AND LOSES GAME

Upp Beats Turtle Creek Valley Athletics, but Mullin Is Shy One Run.

LARGE CROWDS WERE PRESENT

The Turtle Creek Valley Athletics and Howard Risher's Homestead Library A. C. broke even yesterday, the morning game at Homestead, being a pitcher's battle between Upp and Zeller for five innings. Upp had slightly the better of the argument, as he had only three hits registered against him, while Zeller had four. Homestead scored their hits when they were most needed, while Upp kept the hits secured from his delivery scattered. Homestead finally won, 3 to 0.

The teams played the afternoon game at Westinghouse park, Turtle Creek, before the largest crowd ever at a ball game in the Turtle Creek valley. Both pitchers were liberally hard, but Mullen was found at more opportune times than Emerick. Stevenson and Schantz performed well for the home team, the latter batting out a home run. Zeller of Homestead has signed to pitch for the Athletics the balance of the season. The score:

MILLVALE WINS TWO GAMES FROM INTERSCHOLASTICS

School Boys Make Costly Errors in First and Hickeyites Hit in the Next.

The Interscholastics lost two games yesterday at Millvale, the home team won the morning contest, 8 to 6, and the afternoon, 10 to 2. Don Doyle pitched winning ball in the morning, but the team behind him had an off day, and allowed hits to get away from them that should have been taken. In the afternoon the team gave Bailey of the East Liberty academy good support, but the route proved to be too long for the youngster, and in the eighth inning Hickey's crowd landed on him for seven runs. Up to this inning Bailey pitched nice ball. The morning game was replete with hard hitting, the school boys pounding out their errors to put them out of the running. The scores:

ATLANTIC CITY CARES FOR CROWD

No Trouble Housing and Feeding People Who Spent Fourth at the Shore.

AN ALLEGHENIAN SEES THINGS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Young's Ocean Pier.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 4.

Atlantic City hotels have broken all records in the past three days by performing the remarkable feat of rooming and caring for an influx of over 100,000 people who commenced to come here Friday afternoon to spend the nation's holiday and who continued to come as fast as the railroads could carry them until this afternoon. This number does not include the thousands who came down from Philadelphia on the excursion trains. When it is considered that no special preparations had been made to take care of the guests, and it is realized that Atlantic City can take care of twice that number without crowding, one wonders at the power of the word. It impresses one more and more with the fact that Atlantic City is a city of hotels.

The city made no attempt at providing special attractions for the day, nor did the visitors seem to require any. As soon as they had been assigned to rooms and had received their baggage, all made a bee-line for the surf, and at noon today there were more than 100,000 bathers in the water. So great was the demand at some of the bath houses that it was necessary for the proprietors to put three in a room.

The guard was mustered into service, and their brilliant scarlet coats gleamed among the bathers with a conspicuousness which could not be mistaken. They had little to do.

George Harley, who said he resided in Allegheny, caused some alarm with his frantic cries and struggles in the water. "His life guard picked him up in a boat, and learned that his excitement was due to the appearance of a huge fish, which he claimed had attacked him. He believed it to be a shark, but was willing to admit that he was mistaken when he learned that life guards, who, when not to be found on the coast, are scavengers, which refuse to make an attack on anything that moves, and as a matter of fact they have no teeth.

Care for Lost Children.

In anticipation of there being a number of lost children in the crowd, the bureau of lost children, located in The Gazette bureau on Young's ocean pier, was reopened for the season with Mrs. Sarah Francis Smith, the police matron, in charge. For the balance of the season all children who stray away from their parents, or who are strayed from their parents, and that more frequently happens, will be brought to The Gazette bureau by the police and turned over to the matron, who has a large assortment of toys to amuse them and the facilities for making them comfortable. Their arrival at the bureau is reported to the police headquarters by telephone and a description is sent to stations along the beach, so that the life guards may instantly give frantic parents news of their children. In nearly every case where a child is lost in Atlantic City the parents are to blame. In most cases they leave the child at a spot on the beach, with instructions to remain in one spot, and that they can find them. They go in to bathe and when they get out of the water they find that the child, becoming fretful, goes in search of its mother, and not finding her begins to cry. It is then picked up by a policeman, or some visitor, who knows where the lost child is located.

To lessen this evil a children's playground has been established on the beach by an enterprising matron, who, for a small fee, takes charge of children and keeps them amused.

There was one thing noticeable about the celebration, and that was the absence of noise. There were very few firecrackers and tonight no rockets can be seen. Those who were here enjoyed an Independence Day without the unearthly din that in the cities drives one almost frantic.

Pittsburghers at the Shore.

Among the Pittsburghers on the boardwalk today were John W. Bergerman, Clarence Gelffuss, C. E. Ducane, B. L. Connell, Gilbert Moran, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Groff, H. Gaston, A. M. Jones, H. L. Jones, H. "DOCK-GANG" LEADER CURSES ON DEATHBED

His Last Remaining Energy Spent in Swearing at Doctors, Nurses and Patients.

(By Private Wire to The Gazette.)

NEW YORK, July 4.—Patrick Hand, the leader of the "Dock Gang," a collection of young roughs who resemble the "Cherry Hill gang," though dying in the Harlem hospital from three bullet wounds received in a riot at the Harlem market last night, had to be removed from the main ward of the building to an outer shed today because of his violent language.

Ever since Hand was taken to the hospital he has shocked his nurses, doctors and fellow patients with volleys of oaths. Though mortally wounded and sinking fast, what little energy he had left he concentrated in cursing and swearing at all those about him until it became dangerous for the other patients and he had to be carried out of the hospital and placed in an outbuilding.

The surgeon who has been endeavoring to relieve Hand's suffering, told him today that he had but a few hours to live and advised him to calm himself, and if he had any spirit of repentance to exhibit it. In answer the young tough gave voice to a torrent of blasphemy.

He has three bullets in his body, two of 32 caliber and one of 38 caliber. The two 32 caliber bullets were fired from the revolver of Edward Crane, watchman at the Harlem market, who was attacked by Hand and his gang. The other bullet came out of a flurry of shots fired by the fighting men.

CABLEGRAM TO ROOSEVELT.

General Council of International Alliance of Reformed Presbyterians Answers Letter.

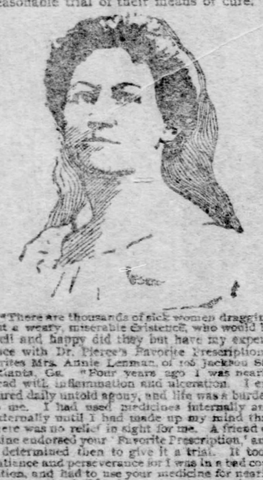
LIVERPOOL, July 4.—The general council of the International Alliance of Reformed Presbyterians today elected the Rev. Dr. James Oswald Dykes, principal professor in the Theological college of the Presbyterian church of England, as chairman for the next five years.

A cablegram was ordered to be sent to President Roosevelt acknowledging his sympathetic letter, which was read to the council July 1. Two hundred and fifty delegates attended lunch in celebration of the Fourth of July, at which the toast of "The United States" was received with enthusiasm. The speakers included the Rev. Dr. McLeod of Scranton, Pa.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.



"There are thousands of sick women dragging out a weary, miserable existence, who would be well and happy did they but have the experience with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. Annie Lenman, of 105 Jackson St., Atlanta, Ga. "Four years ago I was nearly dead with inflammation and ulceration. I endured daily untold agony, and life was a burden to me. I had used medicines internally and externally until I had made up my mind that there was no relief in sight for me. A friend of mine endorsed your 'Favorite Prescription,' and I determined then to give it a trial. It took patience and perseverance for I was in a bad condition, and had to use your medicine for nearly four months before I was cured, but what a change it brought; from despair to happiness, from misery to joy, for which I shall be telling the tale only health brings. I would not change back for a thousand dollars. Your 'Prescription' is a grand medicine. I wish every sick woman would only try it and be convinced."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

EQUALITY OF MAN IS GREAT DECREE

Declaration of Independence Also Meant Its Maintenance, Says Mr. Cleveland.

TAMMANY'S FOURTH OF JULY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 4.—"Wholesome American sentiment which demands fairness and equality in sharing the blessings of our popular government," was urged in a letter from President Grover Cleveland, which was read at the annual Fourth of July celebration of Tammany hall. Mr. Cleveland's letter was as follows:

Princeton, N. J., June 28, 1904.

Dear Sir—I regret that my departure today for my summer vacation, and plans I have made for its enjoyment, make it impossible for me to join the Tammany society in its celebration of the coming anniversary of American independence.

It seems to me that present social and political conditions warn all patriotic Americans that there is need of a revival of the popular sentiments and disposition in which the declaration of independence had its origin, which made it the foundation of a great nation and in which it found the promise of its perpetuity.

The intent of that instrument was not only to declare the equality of man, but to decree its maintenance; and the independence it proclaimed signified not only our people's freedom from a government which lacked their consent, but also their lasting freedom in political thought and action.

No one can be so blind as not to see that in these days of grasping and consuming greatness in the pursuit of wealth, with its consequent inefficiency in politics, danger there is danger that our social and industrial equality will be destroyed and our political independence made the sport of demagogues.

The celebration of independence day should, above all things, be directed towards a resistance to these tendencies and to the promotion of a wholesome American sentiment which demands fairness and equality in sharing the blessings of our popular government and unfettered independence and effectiveness in the exercises of political rights.

Nor should it be forgotten that the fathers of the republic delivered the results of their work, not merely to the care and management of all the people. Nothing can therefore be more startling or can indicate a greater reliance by designing hypocrisy upon our fellow countrymen than the audacity asserted by a political organization seeking to perpetuate its ascendancy, that none but itself in its field is either competent or honest enough to be trusted with government at discretion.

Such a resonance as this is in strange contrast with the sentiments that before the profitable enjoyment of a general celebration by our people on independence day.

Yours very truly,

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Gov. Lucius F. C. Garvin of Rhode Island, former Gov. George S. Boutell of Massachusetts, and Webster Davis were the principal speakers, and all the big men of the society and district leaders who had not gone to St. Louis for the national convention were present. Gov. Garvin spoke on "Constructive Democracy."

Letters of regret were also received from Govs. A. J. Montague of Virginia, A. M. Dockery of Missouri, and James B. Frazier of Tennessee, United States Senator W. A. Clark of Montana and Congressman Champ Clark of Missouri.

THOUSANDS SPENT DAY ON THE RIVER BOATS

Excursion Fleet on the Three Streams Had All the Passengers They Could Handle.

Many Pittsburgh people spent Independence day on the rivers; thousands preferred the cool, quiet streams to the noisy streets; they were willing to miss excitement in order to have pleasure by plying the waters of the old Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio.

The big excursion boat Francis J. Torrance carried 1,100 persons to Moss Side park in the morning and returned early in the evening; from 8 o'clock on until midnight the big steamer carried hundreds around the harbor and up and down the Monongahela. The Mayflower also had a busy day. The demands on this steamer, like the Torrance, were far beyond expectations, and all day long people were along the river front inquiring about the boats. The Beauty of Pittsburgh ran up the Monongahela and was also crowded with those who wanted fresh air and a good breeze more than fireworks.

All along the banks of the rivers were crowds of people watching those on the water. Everywhere could be seen yachting parties, canoes, sail boats and, in fact, every kind of craft. Nobody seemed to want to go any place particularly; they were just out for a row or a sail or a cruise.

Probably not in many years have so many persons been on the local waters on a holiday as yesterday. Aside from the private parties and the thousands on the excursion steamers, packets had a busy time. The Keystone State had people from down the Ohio when she arrived yesterday, and these returned on the boat in the afternoon. The Big Kanawha, from Parkersburg, and the Kanawha, from Charleston, had all the passengers they could carry. The Morgantown boats brought people from West Virginia by the hundreds and took them away again before evening. The Greenland left at noon with passengers bound for St. Louis. This is the third trip the boat has made to St. Louis out of Pittsburgh since May 21, and the packet gets more business.

Hundreds of small boys swampered out to the shores of the upper Allegheny and Monongahela for a swim, and they, too, enjoyed the Fourth in the manner that was so apparently more delightful than blood and thunder celebration.

SOME SMALL FIRES.

Holiday Passed Without Much Damage Being Caused from Flames.

Sparks from a roman candle started a fire in an unoccupied two-story frame stable at Wiltsie street and North Highland avenue at 10:30 o'clock last night. The stable was burned down, causing a loss of about $300. The building was the property of Mrs. T. E. Neel.

An alarm was sent in from box 436, Allegheny, shortly after 10 o'clock last night for a small blaze among some fireworks in the store of George Hammer at Beaver avenue and Greenwood street. The damage was slight.

An alcohol sponge, used in sending up paper balloons, fell on the roof of a house at Van Braam and Forbes street last night and caused a still alarm of fire. There was no damage as the roof was a tin one.

An alarm was sent in from box 171 for a small blaze on the roof of a house in Shafer street. The fire only destroyed a few shingles and was started by a skyrocket.

Fireworks set fire to an awning at 509 Sixth avenue at 8:30 o'clock last night, where a Chinese laundry is located. An officer extinguished the blaze.

SUCCEEDS BOBRIKOFF.

Czar Decides to Appoint Prince John Obolensky Govenor General of Finland.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 4.—The emperor has decided to appoint Prince John Obolensky to succeed Gen. Bobrikoff as governor general of Finland. Prince Obolensky formerly was governor of Kherson and later of Kharkoff. At present he is a lieutenant general on the naval staff. While governor of Kharkoff two years ago an attempt was made to assassinate the prince.

HELSINGFORS, FINLAND, July 4.—The commission which is investigating the assassination of Gen. Bobrikoff, governor general of Finland, is proceeding with great thoroughness and probably will require a month to complete its work. Every person connected with the family of Schaumann, the assassin, is being examined. Twenty arrests have already been made. Former Senator Schaumann, father of the assassin, is detained at the police station and is forbidden to communicate with anyone.

The Paivalehti, organ of the young Finish party, has been suppressed because it did not pronounce itself strongly enough against the crime.

NO DISCIPLINE ON DEATH SHIP

about an hour and a half, when we noticed a boat some distance off and we both made for it. I was hindered by my sore leg and the engineer reached the boat first. Both of us were taken on board quite exhausted. We found that it was life boat No. 1. It was crowded and under the charge of able Seaman Peter Olsen.

"After recovering a little I took charge of the boat and the provisions, which consisted only of a box with bread and two casks of water. The boat was steered for St. Kilda, 150 miles distant. On Saturday morning we saw a large schooner-rigged steamer about four miles distant. We put up a blanket on an oar, but the steamer passed on without taking any notice of us. On Sunday morning a bark passed some distance off, but with the same result. About 12 o'clock Sunday land was sighted and the drooping spirits of all were revived. It proved to be St. Kilda. Some time afterward a steamer was noticed coming from the west bearing down upon our boat. She proved to be the Energie, and at 6 o'clock we were safe on board."

A pathetic little sequel to this tale of rescue is contained in the statement that on Saturday morning one of the children in the lifeboat died, and, with the consent of the parents, who were in the boat, the body was buried at sea."

Details of the Disaster.

GRIMSBY, ENG., July 4.—The sinking of the Norge was a disaster appalling in detail.

No tragedy of the sea has had more appalling consequences and none has occurred in a shorter time. The passengers were suddenly aroused from their sleep, terrified by the contact of the bows of the ship with the solid granite, followed by a grinding, rasping sound as if the hull was being shoved over huge rocks, then silence as the clanging bells brought the engines to a stop. Those of the passengers, who were standing at the time the steamer struck the rock, were thrown against the bulkheads or on the decks and had not recovered their feet when a stentorian voice gave the order: "All hands on deck. Hurry or you all may sink." Immediately there was a rush for the narrow companionways and men, women and children pushed and struggled and made every other effort to reach the deck where the boats were swung free from the davits. Many persons, retaining their presence of mind, seized life preservers only to find in some instances that the strings were rotten and they could not be quickly put around their bodies. Those who reached the deck saw the nose of the Norge pinned directly against the rock.

Returned to Their Stations.

It remained there only a few minutes, for Capt. Gundell, commanding, who had immediately gone to the bridge, gave the order to the engine room to reverse the engines. Some men of the engineer force had relatives among the passengers and after seeing them safely to the boats, they heroically returned to their stations below.

Slowly the ship backed off and as she gained way it was found that water was pouring into her hold. This announcement, called out in Scandinavian and pressing death, added to the supreme fright and agony. The passengers who were piled in the boats were the fortunate ones who were to escape, while the unfortunates, who saw death near, were clustered in the vicinity, seething, struggling masses, some on their knees, praying, surrounded by children, others supplicating aid from anyone and shrieking for permission to enter the boats and elbowing and fighting their way to the places from which the boats were being lowered. The sound of grinding ceased, and the Norge returned to deep water. The sea rushed hungrily into the huge rents made by the rocks in the iron hull. Swiftly the vessel began to sink by the bows. Without waiting for orders, without paying attention to their proper manning, the occupants began to lower the boats.

Accidents to Lifeboats.

The starboard lifeboat began slowly to fall, when to the horror of those on board the stern tackle failed, while the bow tackle ran free. Soon the boat was almost perpendicular. Those who were in it clung desperately to the sides and seats until a great wave came towering along and struck the boat, smashing it against the side of the ship. The occupants of the boat, who were not killed by the impact, were thrown into the water. The crew and passengers on deck had no time to spare to assist the few who had a chance to escape, but lost it.

Undeterred by the experience of the first, a second boat, loaded principally with women and children, was lowered. This time the tackle ran smoothly, but the hopes of escape of the passengers on board were blasted. The moment it touched the water waves picked up the small craft as if it had been a feather and dashed it against the side of the ship in spite of the frantic efforts of the passengers to fend it off. The crash was heard on deck. Then the sea swallowed more victims and pieces of wreckage slowly drifted toward the rock.

Quiet in Shadow of Death.

The upper deck of the Norge at the time of the disaster to the second boat was only a few feet from the water and it was apparent to everyone that only a few minutes more and she would plunge beneath the waves. In the final crisis those who were able to remember clearly what happened say that the shrieks and sobs died away and that the quiet was only broken by the curses of some men whose fear found vent in blasphemy.

Suddenly one man threw himself overboard, and another followed his example. Still another jumped into the water, and soon around the ship hundreds of persons were struggling in the sea, having preferred death in the open to being submerged with the ship. Others determined to stand by the ship, hoping against hope that she would remain afloat. Three boats, it is known, successfully reached the sea. The passengers frantically pulled away from the doomed ship, passing by the poor wretches who were still afloat and who vainly begged to be taken aboard, while from the ship came long despairing cries.

Captain Went Down With Ship.

The women in the boat which reached Grimsby say their eyes, but the men who were sitting facing the Norge say they saw the captain still on the bridge and the passengers on deck in attitudes of resignation. While they looked the Norge plunged forward, her stern shot up in the air, and she disappeared. The swimmers in the vicinity of the ship were drawn into the vortex, around which they swirled like chips in the maelstrom. But 12 minutes elapsed from the time the ship struck until she sank.

A fine Scotch mist which was falling at the time shut the other survivors from the view of those who were brought to Grimsby. The latter, as soon as their boat was clear of the scene of the wreck, devoted themselves to thoughts of their own safety. A jacket was tied to an oar, which was, in turn, fastened in the bow of the boat, and a sailor, a Dane, took charge of the boat. Men and women were put to work keeping the boat afloat, as a hole had been stove in her bow when it was lowered from the ship. An examination of the water cask showed that it did not contain a drop of water. There were some biscuits, however, and those were eaten by the shipwrecked people during the 24 hours from the time the ship struck—at 7 a. m., June 28—until they were picked up by the Grimsby trawler Sylvia.

Karl Mathieson, the Danish sailor who assumed command of the boat brought to Grimsby, only joined the Norge at Copenhagen just before she sailed for New York. He said he knew nothing about the ship's arrangements in case of collision or fire. He had never been instructed in fire drill, and did not understand what it meant. He was on deck when the vessel struck, but he did not know until he heard the captain shouting the order to man the boats that the damage was great. Mathieson further said:

Officers Drove Crew Back.

"I worked with the third mate and followed him to the different boats. The first we attempted to lower fouled her tackle, keeping her stern fixed. Her boys fell and shot the occupants into the water. A heavy sea washed the boat against the ship's side. We went to another, a crowd of shrieking women and children following. The scenes on board were conducted simultaneously, the officers and crew going from one to another. Had men been set to work at each boat more would have been saved. Some of the crew were worse than the passengers and but for the officers would have put off in the boats themselves. These were driven back and threatened with death unless they obeyed orders. The captain never left the bridge, but he shouted so many orders that the crew did not know what to do. Therefore, I stuck to the third mate. Together we jumped into a small boat, just before the vessel struck. These were driven back and not think so many were left behind as appeared on the water when the Norge sank. Those remaining on board were chiefly women and children. I saw only two other boats afloat—one a big tite boat, easily carrying 60 persons, and the other a smaller boat, carrying possibly 40. No other boats got away, though there were eight on board."

Some of the mate passengers, without a thought of self, placed women and children in the boats, preferring to remain behind rather than take advantage of their strength. The mate of the ship who left the ship in the boat which arrived here, seeing that it was overcrowded, leaped into the water for the purpose of swimming to a second boat not far away. He had only gone a short distance when, weighted by his clothes, his strength gave out and he sank.

The crew of the Norge appears to have behaved well after the first panic, when, it is said, the officers were compelled to drive them back from the boats. But there apparently was no discipline, the orders which the captain shouted from the bridge being misinterpreted or unheard. So far as the survivors here remember, there was no systematic distribution of the people to the boats, which were not adequately manned. No attempt was made by any of the survivors to save property. There was no time to make preparations.

Other Survivors Landed.

STORNOWAY, SCOTLAND, July 4.—One hundred and two survivors of the Danish steamer Norge have been landed here. The British steamer Cervona, from Leith, July 1, for Montreal, brought in 32 shortly before noon. She picked them up from a boat yesterday evening westward of the butt of Lewis. They were in a woeful plight, nearly all of them being naked, cold, and without food with the party. Shortly afterwards the German steamer Energie arrived with 70 persons rescued from the Norge's life boat. They all were terribly exhausted. The Cervona proceeded on her voyage, but will keep a lookout for other possible survivors of the Danish steamer.

The Norge had no first class passengers on board and only nine on her second cabin list. These included three Americans—Elizabeth and Anna Buckley of Seattle, Wash., and Miss Hilma Fleischman. All the others were in the steerage. The Norge carried a crew of 71. She was the oldest Danish transatlantic steamer running. Capt. Gundell had a splendid reputation; Gen. Christiansen of New York would go abroad with no other captain.

NEW YORK, July 4.—Scores of excited people, nearly all Russian Jews, besieged the offices of the Scandinavian-American line today, although the office was closed, seeking news of the Norge disaster. One man, named Max Brentzerg, of Brooklyn, said his family of nine, including his father and mother, were on the steamer.

AT THE TRACTION PARKS.

Crowds Saw the Vaudeville Shows, Danced and Heard the Concerts.

There were crowds at the traction parks. All had big picnics, including dancing. Calhoun park had a vaudeville bill, including the Colonial Comedy four; Dal Jeffries, bag puncher; James Criswell, soft shoe dancer, and Jerome Mora, magician. Major R. H. Hendershot and his son, J. C. Hendershot, played on drum and fife. Oakwood had picnics and dancing.

Southern park's vaudeville bill for the week opened in the afternoon instead of the evening, so that it gave the bill to the afternoon crowds as well as those who came in the evening. It was headed by Mlle. Adele Furvis Ouri, whose act is climbing a spiral platform while inside a hollow sphere, then emerging from it and descending on the outside of the same globe while standing. Abbot Davison, the singing comedian, kept his audiences in good humor, while the Barry & Wolford trio, Harry Esuda, the Japanese acrobat, and Morton & Russell's character change act were clever.

While the Homestead Library band gave concerts at Kennywood, Thompson, the high diver, was the star attraction. He makes a dive from a ladder 115 feet high into a tank of water.

THREE YOUNG MEN DROWNED AT PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., July 4.—Walter Stead and Frank Rule of Princeton and a young man named Rulong of Philadelphia, who was visiting here, were drowned in Millstone river this afternoon by the capsizing of their boat. While rowing up the stream the boat got into a treacherous current, which threw it against a rock. The occupants were overboard and were caught in a mass of river grass and roots and carried under. The bodies were recovered three hours later.

ROLLER CHAIR BOYS GO OUT ON STRIKE

ST. LOUIS, July 4.—About 150 roller chair boys went on a strike today. They had asked the concessionaire employing them to guarantee them at least $1 a day, but this did not get a satisfactory reply. The boys are paid 18 cents an hour, and there are about 500 on the grounds.

DR. WITHERSPOON TO LEAVE CHURCH

Pastor of Fifth U. P. Congregation, Allegheny, to Quit After 38 Years.

DUTIES DEMAND HIS TIME

When the Allegheny presbytery of the United Presbyterian church meets at Velencia on Thursday, the Rev. Dr. W. J. Witherspoon, pastor of the Fifth church of Allegheny, will present his resignation, to take effect at the end of the month. His intention to leave was made public from the pulpit last Sunday morning, and caused general regret in the congregation, which he has served for almost 38 years. In making the announcement from the pulpit, Dr. Witherspoon informed his flock that it was at the request of the assembly that he had decided to take this step, as the governing body of the church desires that he devote his entire time to his duties as corresponding secretary of the board of freedmen's missions.

At the meeting of the assembly in May, Dr. Witherspoon was re-elected to serve his thirty-fourth consecutive year in the position he now holds. Because of the increase of the work being done by the mission board, the necessity of a secretary who could devote his time solely to the duties of the office has been recognized for the past two years. Throughout his long service as pastor of the Fifth church, Dr. Witherspoon has found time to perform the labor attached to the office he holds on the board of freedmen.

In severing his connection with the Fifth church, Dr. Witherspoon will terminate a period of service that is longer than that performed by any minister of any denomination, in one church, in this vicinity.

Dr. Witherspoon was graduated from Westminster college in the class of '59, and after attending Allegheny seminary for one year entered Xenia college, at Xenia, O., from which he was graduated in 1863. For more than two years he served a small congregation in the Raccoon and Ohio districts of Beaver county, after being ordained in May, 1868, by the Frankfort presbytery. In December, 1866, Dr. Witherspoon became pastor of a small mission then located at the corner of First and East streets, Allegheny.

It was in the spring of 1879 that the foundation for the present Fifth church structure was laid, and since then Dr. Witherspoon has served continously in its pulpit. At the time the first work was started on the new church, Dr. Witherspoon was elected secretary of the board of freedmen's missions of the United Presbyterian church, and his service in that capacity has continued without a break. From a mission of 50 members, the Fifth church has grown until now its membership numbers 650. It is one of the largest congregations in the city, and its pastor for years has been one of the most prominent men in the United Presbyterian church. Nothing has been said yet as to choosing a successor to Dr. Witherspoon, as it was not until last Sunday that any intimation of the proposed change was given the congregation.

CELEBRATION OCCURS AT OLD FORT NECESSITY

One Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of Battle Commemorated by Ceremonies.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

UNIONTOWN, PA., July 4.—Near the site of old Fort Necessity in Wharton township, 10 miles from Uniontown, was held today a grand celebration in observance of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Fort Necessity, on July 4, 1754, when Col. George Washington, then 22 years old, with a handful of soldiers, resisted for nine long hours the combined attack of the French and Indians and fought the battle which has been aptly called "The foundation head of American independence." Though Fort Necessity is in a rather inaccessible place, being nearly 10 miles from railroad or trolley lines, a crowd, estimated at 5,000 people, gathered there early in the day and joined in the celebration.

Two companies of the Tenth regiment, National guard, Company C, of Uniontown, and Comapny D, of Connellsville, marched out yesterday and camped over night near the fort. These companies and various other organizations participated in the parade at 11 o'clock. The chief marshal was Lieut.-Col. Everhard Bierer, of the Tenth regiment. In the procession were some who had attended the centennial celebration 50 years ago. The address of the day was by Hon. George C. Sturgis of Morgantown, W. Va., who took the place of Senator P. C. Knox, who had accepted the invitation to be present, but found it impossible at the last moment to come. Mr. Sturgis gave an account of Washington's movements in Western Pennsylvania, and said mighty events had their inception in the battle of Fort Necessity, and those days of 1754 saw the dawn of American independence.

Mr. Sturgis was followed by Father A. A. Lambing of Wilkinsburg and Judge F. C. White of Pontiac, Ill. Father Lambing gave an address of historic interest and referred to Pittsburgh as the key to the west, both in the early history of the country and now in an industrial and commercial sense. Judge E. H. Reppert of Uniontown was the presiding officer. The Declaration of Independence was read by Attorney R. F. Hopwood of Uniontown. A sham battle between Company C of Uniontown and Company D of Connellsville on the site of the old fort was a feature of the celebration.

WILKESBARRE, July 4.—Major George Groff of Bucknell college, was the chief speaker at the exercises today commemorating the massacre of Wyoming. He told about the settlement of the Germans in the district, where now are the towns of Reading, Lebanon and Meyerstown, in 1723, and the development of the country by them.

STABBING AND RIOT MARK CONNELLSVILLE FOURTH

Lewis Moore May Die—Accidents at Different Places on Independence Day.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., July 4.—A stabbing affray in which Lewis Moore was almost disemboweled and a bloody fistic encounter were viewed by 5,000 people here today. During the fifth inning of a game of ball between the Pittsburgh Reserves and the Dawson-Vanderbilt team, Moore kicked a small son of Samuel Addis. James Smith, standing nearby, drew a long knife from his pocket and stabbed Moore in the abdomen, the knife going to a depth of four inches and making a gash clear across his body. Physicians upon the ground were hastily summoned, but having none of their instruments with them were unable to give immediate attention. Several hours afterward he was brought to the hospital here. He is not expected to live. Hardly had the fight on the ball ground in the center of the race course subsided until the Gentlemen's Road race for the Association cup was called. There were four entries. William Bradman's horse won the first heat over David Girard's by five feet. Girard's driver claimed that Bradman fouled him at the three-quarter post. This caused a fist encounter in which both Bradman and Girard were knocked to the ground. Blood was spilled freely. All the male element became involved in the dispute and a small riot occurred, practically causing the abandonment of the closing event. James S. Baker, 12 years old, son of Weldon Baker, died at the hospital this afternoon from tetanus. He shot himself in the hand with a toy pistol several days ago.

SCOTTDALE, PA., July 4.—Joseph Keefe, aged 13 years, of near Laurelville, Pa., was struck by a street car at North Scottdale this afternoon and probably fatally injured. He knocked down, his foot catching in the truck, and he was dragged about 50 yards before the car could be stopped. His left arm was broken and it is believed he sustained serious internal injuries. He was taken to the hospital at Mt. Pleasant. Joseph Marsteller, aged about 24, was severely injured by being caught between two cars on the Everson bridge this evening. He was standing on the running board and was rolled between the cars as they passed.

LATROBE, PA., July 4.—Will Mehler, 10 years old, son of Henry Mehler, of West Latrobe, had several fingers blown off and was burned about the face while setting off fire crackers this morning.

WELLSVILLE, O., July 4.—In a street car week here this morning, caused by an East Liverpool car jumping the track, three persons were injured as follows: S. J. Corson of Wellsville, right shoulder broken; Brady Haught of Brady Creek, wrist cut and artery severed by glass; Roy Glenn of East Liverpool, foot smashed.

LATROBE, PA., July 4.—Mrs. August Rachalcer was accidently shot in the right shoulder at her home here by a young brother today.

LEECHBURG, PA., July 4.—Charles W. Coulter was killed by a train last night in the Kiskiminetas Junction yards of the Pennsylvania railroad. His body was not found until this morning. He was 35 years of age and leaves a wife and one child. He had been visiting his parents in New Kensington.

CUMBERLAND, MD., July 4.—Oscar Karnes, aged 18 years, claiming Orangeville, Columbia county, Pennsylvania, as his home, fell under a Baltimore & Ohio train at Pattersons Depot, W. Va., this morning, and his right leg was crushed. He was employed on the Wabash extension work and was coming to Cumberland to spend the Fourth. He was brought to the hospital here.

Murder at Belmont, Pa.

GREENSBURG, PA., July 4.—(Special.)—George Hezinger, aged 54 years, of Belmont, was killed by Gregory C. Firms of the same place today, who struck him with his fist. At the inquest Firms said that Hezinger had attempted to rob him and he struck in self-defense. The jury held him responsible for the murder and he was committed to jail.

Bible House Picnic Held.

The Bible House picnic was held yesterday in Highland park and about 250 people, mostly those interested in the work of the Welch Tower society of Allegheny, were there. Pastor Russell, besides conducting two song services, made an address to those present.

POLICEMAN SHOT FIGHTER FATALLY

Balbach's Prisoner Was Rescued, and He Was Being Beaten When He Fired.

FORMER OFFICER'S ESCAPADE

Patrolman Frederick Balbach shot and probably fatally wounded Edward Kelly shortly after 9 o'clock last night under the Soho approach to the Twenty-second street bridge. The shooting was the result of a free-for-all fight, the participants in which the police were trying to arrest.

Patrolmen Balbach and Sullivan saw several men fighting in Second avenue under the bridge, and succeeded in placing Thomas Edwards of 2519 Fifth avenue and William Ewegon of Soho street under arrest. Balbach had the latter in custody and was on his way to the patrol box when he was knocked down from behind by two men alleged to be Kelly and Harry Clair of Atwood street.

The prisoner was taken from him and he was being kicked and beaten when he drew his revolver and fired at his assailants. The bullet struck Kelly in the back and penetrated the left lung. He was taken to Mercy hospital, and is in a critical condition.

Assistance having arrived, the police arrested the other three men and took them to the Center avenue police station, where Edwards and Ewegon were charged with disorderly conduct and Clair with interfering with an officer.

Balbach was badly used up and required the services of a physician. Among other injuries, his nose was broken by a kick.

Flourishing a pistol, Edward Brown, a negro, who was formerly a sub-patrolman, late yesterday afternoon threatened to make a clean sweep of the boarding house of Mrs. Sadie Wilson, 4 Hartley's row, East End, and in endeavoring to enter the building knocked down Russell Lucas and shot Joseph Lewis, both colored. It is claimed that Brown intended hitting Mrs. Wilson, with whom he had quarreled earlier in the day.

During the excitement one of Brown's brothers pulled him away and, although a general alarm was sent out, the police were unable to make an arrest last night. Lewis, who was shot in the left forearm, was only slightly injured. Brown was a sub-officer connected with the East End station for several months. He is said to have come here from Pocohontas, Va., where he is wanted for shooting a man. He took his meals with Mrs Wilson and lived on Station stret. He is said to have been drunk at the time of the shooting.

BROOMSTICK RAMROD FATALLY HURTS FOUR

COLFAX, ILL., July 4.—By the premature explosion of a cannon at Colfax, today, Leo Chapman, Roy Harris, Fred Grending and Ralph Hester were perhaps fatally injured. While they were using a broomstick for a ramrod and were pounding it in with a baseball bat, the powder exploded, blowing pieces of the ramrod into the bodies of the four victims.

ONLY 200 POPULISTS ATTENDING CONVENTION

Hundreds of Vacant Seats in Hall at Springfield When Sessions Begin.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., July 4.—The 500 or 600 delegates that were expected to attend the Populist national convention in this city today did not put in an appearance, and when the convention was called to order this afternoon there were fewer than 200 delegates in the hall. Mayor Devereux, who was scheduled to extend a word of welcome to the Populists at the opening of the convention, did not appear. There were hundreds of empty seats in the large state arsenal, where the convention was held. Only 24 states were represented in the convention.

The convention was called to order by Vice Chairman J. H. Edmiston of Nebraska, and the call for the convention was read by J. A. Parker of Kentucky, national chairman. Fox-Congressman L. H. Weller of Iowa was made temporary chairman and Charles Q. De France of Nebraska temporary secretary.

The feature of the platform to be adopted will be the money question. A demand is to be made that the issuance of notes be taken from the banks and that the government assume the entire and absolute charge of coining and printing of money, and that all, whether gold, silver or paper, shall be legal tender for all debts, public and private. An opposition to trusts will be declared and a demand made for the government ownership of all public utilities.

A plank will declare for the abolition of the alien ownership of land, and another that the 200,000,000 acres held by the railroads and not used by them shall revert to the government.

A graduated income tax will be another plank.

The initiative and referendum will be declared for and the election of the president and United States senators by a direct vote of the people.

Policeman Kills Merchant.

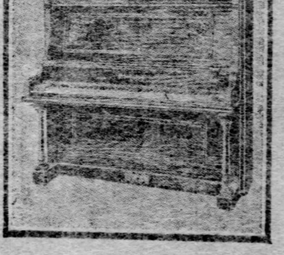
HARRISBURG, O., July 4.—F. A. Chamberlain, a hardware merchant was fatally shot today by a man named Barsh. Barsh, who was arrested, was in danger of lynching. Columbus was asked for police to help get Barsh to jail here, and two officers were sent. Barsh, who was a policeman, shot Chamberlain when Chamberlain attempted to put him out of the store.

Judge Reduces Verdict.

FRANKLIN, PA., July 4.—(Special.)—Stuart Simpson, the wealthy Oil City producer, who was awarded $41,250 damages against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for injuries received in a wreck, must accept half that amount or nothing. Judge Criswell has decreed that the verdict is too large and says that $22,000 is sufficient.

100 New Pianos At a Cut Price of $190

On Payments to Suit Your Convenience.



We have just been fortunate enough to secure a special lot of one hundred splendidly made, magnificent looking and beautiful toned pianos, at less than they cost the maker to produce them. The maker needed money urgently at just this time, and we had the money. We made him an extremely low offer for the lot and he accepted our offer.

These pianos should and ordinarily do sell for $300. But the saving we have made in the cost to us, we are willing to give to our customers. That is why we are able to sell you this reliable, handsome, durable, fine-toned piano at $190.

On Terms of $10 Down and $1.50 a Week

THINK OF IT!

A reliable piano, fully warranted by this, the oldest piano house in Pittsburgh, for only $190.

No such offer of so good and trustworthy a piano has ever been made in this city, nor anywhere else in the United States.

We have only 100 of these pianos and we regret there are so few of them to be distributed throughout this city and Western Pennsylvania, with its two millions of people, comprising thousands of families who need and desire pianos, and most of whom have their eyes open for just such an opportunity as this.

There is certain to be about ten applications for every one of these pianos. This means, of course, that if you want one you can only be sure of getting it by coming right to our store without delay. Or, if that is not possible, write us by the first mail, and have one of these pianos put aside for you until you can come in and see it.

Sole depot for Steinway, Weber, Krakauer, Krell-French and Chauncey Pianos, the Pianola, the standard piano player, and the Regina Music Boxes, the Best Sheet Music, Musical Instruments, etc.

EXPECTING GUEST AT OYSTER BAY

Senator Fairbanks to Spend Next Saturday and Sunday With President Roosevelt.

SUMMER PROGRAM OUTLINED

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 4.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks is expected as a guest at Sagamore Hill next Saturday. He will attend the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Republican party at Jackson, Mich., on Wednesday, and will come from there to Oyster Bay. He will probably remain over Sunday.

He will doubtless be the first man of national prominence to call on the president, and the plans for the campaign will be very carefully gone over. Senator Fairbanks is to speak in many places between the middle of August and the 1st of November, and he and Mr. Roosevelt will doubtless map out the senator's campaign tours and carefully outline at least a line of talk he shall follow.

The citizens of Oyster Bay are preparing for a big time when the committee from Chicago comes here to notify Mr. Roosevelt officially of his nomination.

Secretary Loeb outlined today what the program will be "on the hill" for the summer. He announced formally that the arrangements in effect here this summer will be the same as those made by President McKinley at Canton in 1900.

Mr. Loeb also called attention to the fact that while in 1896 Mr. McKinley received many delegations at his summer home, he abandoned that plan when he was a candidate for re-election in 1900. No delegation or excursion party will be admitted to Sagamore Hill, said Mr. Loeb, and anyone desiring to present business of importance must first obtain an appointment through the secretary. All persons wishing to see the president on matters affecting the campaign will be referred to Chairman Cortelyou, as well as all communications on the subject. The regular business of the administration will be carried on in Oyster Bay as if the president were in Washington.

President Roosevelt spent today picnicking with his family. It was truly a "glorious Fourth" on Long Island, the sun shining from a cloudless sky, and the air being cool and bracing. During the forenoon the president, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and their children, and two or three others left Sagamore Hill for a row across the bay toward Cold Spring. Members of the party took with them hampers containing their luncheon. Late in the day the president and his family returned after a thoroughly enjoyable outing.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt tonight entertained about 100 of their friends at a fireworks party given in honor of the Roosevelt children. The display was directed by an expert from New York and was even more elaborate than that of last year. At its conclusion refreshments were served. Music and an informal hop for the children concluded the festivities.

Prisoners Were Released.

The four men arrested in the American Express Company's office in Wood street early Sunday morning—Benjamin King, the colored janitor; F. W. Whiting, Charles Harrison and F. Kerr—had a hearing before Magistrate Stewart at the first station yesterday. The agent of the company appeared in their behalf and asked that they be released, as they are all employes and were privileged to sleep in the office at times. He said, however, the arresting officer had done right in arresting them, not knowing they had that right. Magistrate Stewart discharged them.

Colombia to Pay Her Debts.

LONDON, July 4.—A private telegram received here says that $65 per bond of the overdue interest on the Colombian debt will be paid immediately, and that the regular service of the debt hereafter has been arranged.

RAILROAD WORK SHOWS DECREASE

Only 2,000 Miles of New Construction During First Six Months of 1904.

TEXAS LEADS ALL STATES

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, July 4.

About 2,000 miles of new railroad lines have been constructed in the United States during the first six months of 1904. This is a falling off, compared with the figures of 1903 and 1902, and it shows in a marked degree one of the results of the economical spirit caused by the decrease in traffic and increased operating expenses. Railway improvement plans on record at the beginning of this year provided for much greater new construction than in either of the preceding years. At least one-half of these plans have been suspended or abandoned.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company alone has stopped work on about 200 miles of projected new lines. The Gould roads have deferred the starting of work on between 400 and 500 miles of new railroad, and all of the large western systems have pigeonholed all plans for extension except such as were nearly completed or regarded as imperative. So many railroad companies have been compelled to borrow money to make good deficits in operating expenses during the winter and spring that it has not been deemed prudent to issue bonds for additional construction.

Figures compiled show that from January 1 to July 1 there were 1,937 miles of new railroad laid in the United States. This work has been conducted by 133 different companies, and is distributed through 32 States. The total amount of track laid last year was 5,788 miles, and inasmuch as no absolutely new work has been commenced recently the aggregate of construction for this year will fall greatly below the figures of 1903.

Such systems as the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Rock Island, Burlington & Chicago & Northwestern, St. Paul and Illinois Central, all of which were generous contributors to the new mileage of the past few years, are doing practically nothing this year except to complete extensions and cut-offs which were begun last summer and fall.

Texas leads the lead in new railway construction this year, showing 284 miles of track for the six months.

ALEXANDER DODDS.

IN HAWTHORNE'S HONOR.

Centennial Anniversary of Novelist's Birth Is Celebrated at His Old Home.

CONCORD, MASS., July 4.—As a tribute to Nathaniel Hawthorne hundreds of pilgrims came to Concord today to take part in the observance here of the centennial anniversary of the novelist's birth.

A bronze tablet, placed on the path to the hill where Hawthorne daily walked and in the heart of a group of pines near "Wayside," the author's home, was unveiled by Miss Beatrice Hawthorne, granddaughter of the novelist.

Col. Thomas Wentworth Higginson, historian, presided at the exercises. Among those who spoke in eulogy of Hawthorne and his work were Mrs. Maud Howell Elliott, and Prof. Charles T. Copeland of Harvard university.

DOOLEY IMMORTAL; WILL DELIGHT ALL

Finley Peter Dunne's Humor Never Fails, Says W. D. Howells.

NEW SERIES BEGINS SUNDAY

Finley Peter Dunne, the creator of Mr. Dooley, who has not been heard from for about two years, is soon to begin a new series of his famous sketches in The Pittsburgh Sunday Gazette. He has been engaged upon editorial work for Harper's Weekly and Collier's during these years, letting his humorous fancy rest, and should return to his old love with new ardor and set the world to laughing again.

So eminent a critic as W. D. Howells has this to say of Mr. Dooley:

"The whole drama of the nation and largely the drama of the world, is represented in that simple setting, through the comments of Mr. Dooley on passing events." And Mr. Dunne, he declares, to be "of the line of great humorists who have not failed us in our crises of folly or misdoing."

Like most other famous characters of fiction the great and only Mr. Dooley has, or had, rather, his counterpart in real life.

When Finley Peter Dunne was a reporter in Chicago, a decade or more ago, there was a plain, unpretentious saloon in Dearborn street, famed for the honest excellence of the whisky dispensed over its bar, and beloved of the elect because of the pungent, biting humor of its presiding genius, "Jim" McGarry. And it was in the person of no other than "Jim" McGarry that Dunne discovered Mr. Dooley.

When Dunne first met McGarry the saloonkeeper was about 70 years old, and though age had tempered his fiercely partisan spirit and mellowed and broadened his views of life, it had been powerless to dim the sparkle of his eye or diminish the lightning flash of his penetrating humor. McGarry was a fine figure of a man, massive and well proportioned.

In common with most of the Irish race, he had a native gift for politics. But in his case it was contemplative rather than active.

McGarry is dead, but Mr. Dooley is immortal. And the good news that he will soon be heard from again is hailed with delight throughout the English-speaking world.

The new Dooley series will begin July 10 in The Pittsburgh Sunday Gazette and will appear every week.

MOYER TO BE RELEASED.

President of Western Federation of Miners Taken to Denver to Give Bond.

CRIPPLE CREEK, COL., July 4.—Sheriff Edward Bell took Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, to Denver today, where he will be permitted to furnish security in the sum of $10,000 in the information charging him with murder and conspiracy to murder in connection with the Victor riot on June 6, in which two men were killed.

TELLURIDE, COL., July 4.—Harry A. Floaten, manager of the Peoples Supply Company's store in this city, who has been twice deported by the Citizens Alliance, supported by the military authorities, returned today. He was not molested.

"I am going to stay here and defend myself and my rights," he said.

"I have had the best legal advice, and was told to stand on my constitutional rights as a citizen and not submit to the tyranny and oppression of the Citizens Alliance."

The only accusation ever brought against Mr. Floaten was that he transacted the financial business of the miners' union.

BANKS AND MARKETS CLOSED

The Fourth of July is always a close holiday in financial circles. Yesterday the banks and markets throughout the country were closed. Business will be resumed this morning at the usual hour, but the stock market is likely to remain dull awaiting the outcome of the Democratic national convention.

The interesting event in local financial circles today will be the action of the directors of the Monongahela River Coal Company on the preferred dividend. The impression prevails that the dividend will be reduced or passed.

Trunk Lines Chief factor in Sending Out Grain

"Trunk line traffic and the differential rates to and from the seaboard," is the title of a monograph just issued by the department of commerce and labor through its bureau of statistics. In discussing the question it says the trunk line traffic between the north and west lands, seaboard and the surplus grain states of the central west have for fully half a century been the chief agency in the distribution of the products of the farm and orchards. To these carriers is due more credit than any other single agency for the degree and commercial ascendancy now enjoyed by the United States in the world's market. Their capacity to lay down regularly, month by month, and year by year, cheap food supplies in European markets, by co-operation with ocean lines, has enabled large portions of densely populated Europe from agricultural to industrial communities. The transition of leading continental states from the agricultural regime prior to 1870 to the industrial and commercial order of the last 25 years, coincided with the rise of the American grain trade in which the trunk lines have so long been the ruling factor.

Reducing Working Force.

Because of shortage of orders for locomotives the Baldwin Locomotive works has been compelled to drop 6,000 men from its force, and it is further announced that it proposes to do the near future. The total number of men employed when the full capacity of the works was being turned out was 16,000.

Rules for Safety Inspectors.

The interstate commerce commission has issued a circular announcing that applicants for the position of safety appliance inspector must hereafter be examined by a board appointed under the civil service law. The chairman of the board is the chief safety appliance inspector. The most elaborate blank has to be filled out, showing the applicant's condition and history, and then he must submit to an oral examination on his familiarity with the safety appliance law and with the rules and recommended practices of the American Railway association and Master Car Builders, Master Mechanics and Airbrake Men's associations. He must also show his ability in a train yard and show that he is familiar with the management of cars.

Plans for New Bridge.

New plans for an additional suspension bridge for New York city have been submitted. The feature is the radical treatment in the architectural anchorages. The tops will be laid out in what is described as "heraldic scrolls." Seven granite columns supporting an ornamental granite arch are the feature of the anchorage. The tops of these anchorages will be 120 feet high. The towers will be made of four steel columns joined by a cantilever construction.

To Work by the Piece.

It is reported that the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad intends to start piecework in its Terre Haute shops. The matter has been under discussion for some time, and was decided upon at a recent meeting of the officials.

Railroad Notes.

All the railroad offices in the city were closed yesterday, the operating departments were the only ones where work was done.

The train bearing the guests of the Wabash railroad to the St. Louis fair, which left Saturday night, left St. Louis at 12 o'clock last night.

No advancement recently made in the passenger equipment was manifest yesterday when the railroad had to put into commission several of the small coaches. All the old style cars, sent to the shops to be dismantled, had to be used yesterday to handle the large crowds.

SMALL HORSES WANTED.

Japanese Would Like to Place Order for 10,000, but Offer Low Price.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(Special.)—Representatives of the Japanese government are canvassing the large horse dealers in this city to get their prices on 10,000 undersized cavalry horses.

Unless they talk different figures than they have up to the present, however, it is doubted if the order will be placed. They want to pay $25 a head less than the horses can be bought for. If the order is accepted the understanding is that the animals will be delivered at the rate of 2,000 a month on the Pacific coast, at which point the horses will be turned over to the Japanese government.

They want the very smallest horses obtainable.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Will Run Their Second Special Excursion to the seashore on Thursday, July 7th.

Morning train leaves Union station, Pittsburgh at $3.55 a. m., carrying Pullman parlor cars and day coaches, reaching Atlantic City at 8.35 p. m. Evening trains with coaches and sleeping cars at 4.05 and 9 p. m., and with sleeping cars only at 10 o'clock. Rate $10 in coaches only, or $12 in parlor or sleeping car, when accompanied by regular Pullman ticket. Tickets and Pullman accommodations can now be secured at city ticket office, Pittsburgh.

POLICE LOSE CONTROL.

Military Likely to Be Called Out at Sydney, B. C., on Account of Strike.

SYDNEY, C. B., July 4.—On account of the inability of the Sydney police force to maintain order at the Dominion Iron and Steel works, where a strike is in progress, it is expected the militia will be called out.

After parading the streets last night strikers and their friends today went to the gates of the plant and forcibly prevented non-union men from entering. The police on duty were unable to handle the crowd.

Then latter took charge of the entrances and would not permit President Plummer of the company and Comptroller Cameron to go in. Few non-union men succeeded in entering the works. No one was injured.

TAKES BLAME HIMSELF TO SAVE ANOTHER MAN

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 4.—Sanford Vaughan, Jr., who admitted to the detectives that he fired the shot that killed Attorney R. Lee Suter yesterday, made a statement today contradicting his former announcement in every particular. Vaughan now says he took the blame upon himself to shield another member of the party who is a married man and prominent in business circles.

The Three Rivers

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

CINCINNATI, July 4.—The stage of the river at 6 o'clock this evening registered 12 feet and rising, a rise of 3.4 feet during the last 24 hours. Weather partly clear and cloudy, with showers, very warm. Local packets were in and out on regular schedule. All bring a big excursion business. There were no towboat movements today, but the regular excursion boats were tested to their capacity with night and afternoon excursions. The Kanawha fleet is due tomorrow with coal.

LOUISVILLE—River rising, with 5.6 feet in the canal, 8.4 feet on the falls and 10.3 feet below the locks. Raining.

PARKERSBURG—River 5.1 feet and falling. Weather fair and pleasant. Wood and down Tuesday and Columbia up.

STEUBENVILLE—River 5.9 inches and falling. Weather cloudy and warm. Down, Greenland, 6 a. m.

CHARLESTON—River 11 feet and falling. Weather cloudy and warm.

WHEELING—River 6 feet 2 inches. Clear and hot. Down, Big Kanawha, Bessie Smith, Parkersburg; Greenland, St. Louis. Up with empties, Enterprise. The Peter Sprague is at Marietta.

WARREN—River four tenths of a foot. Weather warm, showers.

PARKERSBURG—River 9 feet and rising. Hot, with storms tonight. The Queen City passed up for Pittsburgh at 9 a. m.

PLENTY OF BOATS.

Harbor Was Filled With Steamers—Virginia Breaks Its Record.

The harbor was well filled with boats all day yesterday. The Keystone State, Big Kanawha and Columbia were in and out, the Greenland got away for St. Louis, the Kanawha arrived from Charleston, and the towboat Tornado came in from down river with a big load of coal. Other towboats are strung all along the shores from the Point to the First pool in the Monongahela.

Reports received here were that the Virginia, leaving here Saturday, arrived at Cincinnati yesterday with the biggest list of passengers for at least five years. The passengers numbered about 250, and there was a heavy trip of freight besides. Other towboats reported yesterday that there is an obstruction about six feet high in the channel at Leetharf. It is about one-third way out from the Island bar and on account of its being right in the channel, warning notices have been posted regarding it and the government officials have been notified.

Arrivals.

Local River Notes.

The stage of water in the Ohio river according to the gauge at Davis Island dam at 8 o'clock last night was 5 feet and stationary.

The J. B. Williams has laid up at Steubenville.

The Queen City will have a good trip out tomorrow.

Thomas Parrott, the steamboat painter, was a passenger aboard the Keystone State this trip.

The Oakland has arrived at Louisville and will come back up river with a tow of empties. She left Marietta Sunday on the trip down.

The big seine, in charge of Capt. Frank Cain and Capt. John Dippold, got as far as Proctor yesterday with a tow of 14 boats and 14 barges. They will be brought into the harbor here as soon as the water gets high enough.

CROWDS AT CARNIVAL.

Free Feats Were All Given Several Extra Times to Meet the Demand.

The announcement that all of the free acts at the Building Trades council carnival being held in Wabash park would be given every two hours yesterday had the desired effect. The committee of arrangements realized the park would be crowded all day and, that every person might see the committee decided the free feats should do extra turns.

From early in the day until the carnival closed last night every attraction on the grounds had all the people that could be handled. The carnival will close Saturday and from now on the committee is confident it will be well patronized. The Duquesne Greys will drill tonight and give a sham battle.

Battleship Illinois at Gibraltar.

GIBRALTAR, July 4.—The United States battleship Illinois arrived here today from Newport, June 19, and is coaling preparatory to joining Rear Admiral Barker's squadron.

ODELL WILL CONFER WITH STATE LEADERS

NEW YORK, July 4.—(Special.)—Gov. Odell will be in town tomorrow and will be in conference at the Fifth Avenue hotel during the day with a number of Republicans. It is understood that W. L. Ward of Westchester, the national committeeman; William Barnes, chairman of the executive committee of the state committee; William C. Warren, Senator Platt and Col. George W. Dunn of Binghamton, will foregather with the governor-chairman and talk over the gubernatorial situation. As everyone knows, Mr. Ward's choice for governor is Brastus C. Knight of Buffalo.

SHOT FOR HIS INSULTS.

Italian Fruit Dealer in New York Dying, and Saloonkeeper Is Accused.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(Special.)—Pasquilo Squellimbo, 20 years old, a fruit dealer of No. 2293 First avenue, is in a critical condition in Harlem hospital from a bullet wound in the head, which was received during a fight at One Hundred and fourteenth street and First avenue, just before midnight. Physicians say that his recovery is doubtful.

The police have arrested Vincenzo Palasi, aged 28, a saloonkeeper, and his wife, and they are searching for a brother of Palasi, who is said to have done the shooting.

Squellimbo, it is said, insulted Mrs. Palasi, and after being beaten by Palasi was shot by his brother-in-law. He was then left unconscious on the pavement, where he was found by a policeman.

Dumont to Sail on Water.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(Special.)—Santos-Dumont, who navigates the air, is going back to Paris this week on the La Lorraine. He said that the rumor that he had injured his own balloon was nonsense, and that it was probably started to forestall a suit for damages. "I have no intention of bringing such a suit," he said.

GUFFEY MAY TAKE HOLD ON RETURN

If Bigelow Controls Republican Organization He Will Want No Democratic Candidates.

HE DEPENDS UPON J. A. CLARK

When Col. James M. Guffey returns to Pittsburgh from the St. Louis convention local politics will begin in earnest. It is known that Col. Guffey wants the Democrats to nominate a county and legislative ticket, and it is probable, if the nominee of the national convention suits him, that an entire Democratic ticket will be nominated.

Another influence may, it is pointed out, work against Col. Guffey. As The Gazette has already published, the leaders of the Citizens party are trying to secure control of the Republican county committee, with a view to managing the coming campaign for the Republicans and thus taking a place in state politics and pushing aside the present Republican leaders. If they succeed they are expected to use their influence with James A. Clark, the chairman of the Democratic city committee, to have the Democrats put up very few, if any, candidates, intending thus to demonstrate their influence with the Democrats and incur the favor of the Republican candidates for the legislature and of the state organization, who, they argue, would be well pleased with any men who could thus reduce the expenses of running the campaign.

The chairman of the Democratic county committee, Thomas B. Alcorn, is known to be strongly under the influence of Clark, but it is not doubted that when Col. Guffey speaks Alcorn will follow his lead. And it is believed that Guffey will insist on an entire Democratic ticket, in this a presidential campaign.

Guffey is the controlling influence, although the Democratic organization apparently in the hands of Clark, who arranged that no Democratic legislative candidates or candidate for coroner was nominated at the Democratic conventions, the selection of candidates being left to the Democratic county committee, which Clark, through Alcorn, hopes to control. There are many Democratic employes in the county and municipal service. Thomas B. Bigelow hopes to have them on his side, should it seem advisable to him to have the Democrats put up no legislative candidates or, at least, only one, the candidate from the Fourth district, ordinarily supposed to be controlled by the Democrats.

If the Citizens find that they cannot control the Republican county committee they will, it is asserted, not care if the Democrats do put up candidates, for they will not have to bear any part in the expenses of the campaign. In that case they will not attempt to interfere between Guffey and Clark and they will not expect the Democrats on the city and county payroll to support the Republican ticket.

COUNCILS MEET AFTER ELECTION

Bigelow to Rush Contract Ordinances Through if Bond Issues Are Approved.

FINANCE COMMITTEE CALLED

There will not be another meeting of Pittsburgh councils until after the bond election on July 12, a week from today, but after that date both branches will be in session weekly for a month or more. Councils have adjourned for the summer, unless called in special session, but Presidents Wightman and Ward will call both bodies together immediately after the bond election, providing the bonds issues are approved by the people.

Within a few days after the election ordinances will be introduced in councils by the administration to let the contracts for the building of the filtration plant and for the removal of the hump. According to Director Bigelow the filtration job will be let in one contract, instead of seven or eight contracts, as proposed by the former administration. The hump removal will be another contract and will not be divided.

Bigelow's reason for this is that if the work was divided into several contracts the contractors might interfere with one another and delay the work. It is the intention of Bigelow to have the ordinances for both contracts passed by councils and to let the contracts as speedily as possible.

The advertisements for bids on the contracts will probably be inserted in the newspapers before the ordinances are passed by councils to enable the administration to give out the contracts within a few days after councils have acted.

President Ward of common council, said yesterday there would not be a meeting of either branch of councils until after July 12. A call for a meeting of the finance committee of councils has been sent out for this afternoon, but it is believed that this call was a mistake. It is not probable that a quorum of any committee can be obtained while the majority of the councilmen are in St. Louis on the Wabash excursion. The St. Louis party will not return until tonight.

Controller Larkin said yesterday that he believed that a strong and wide-spread opposition to both bond issues prevails, but he thought that the administration might carry the election with the aid of the pay roll unless the taxpayers generally took a greater interest in the election. He said a great many windows were opposed to the bond issues are outside of the city and many property owners in the city are somewhat indifferent to their interests. The controller is seriously considering whether to come out openly in opposition to the bond issues, and in a few days he will probably issue a strong statement to the public on the matter.

CHAUTAUQUA

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 4.—(Special.)—In appearance Chautauqua was quite patriotic, the public buildings and colleges gayly draped with flags and bunting, the wagons and vehicles decorated with the Stars and Stripes and many people wearing tiny flags. But in the general quiet which prevailed there was not a hint of the noise which elsewhere joudly emphasized the Fourth of July. No firecrackers or fireworks were set off on the bluffs or the cottage grounds, except on the lake front. Rather more than the usual number of excursionists were on the grounds today, probably due to opening of the new trolley line and excursion rates prevailing on it and on the steamers.

The devotional hour was conducted by Miss Miller and Miss Layton of Australia. Today was the centenary of the birth of Nathaniel Hawthorne, and in recognition of the literary importance of the day, Prof. Frank Lockwood spoke on Hawthorne. This lecture was the first in a series of four which Prof. Lockwood will give on American men of letters.

Prof. Lockwood gave short descriptions of Hawthorne's personal appearance, and after giving a brief biography, spoke of the principal characters and incidents in Hawthorne's works. Independence day exercises were held in the amphitheater this afternoon, the address being delivered by William Rockett Wright of Buffalo, on "Lincoln." Mr. Wright enumerated the many noble characteristics which made Lincoln so greatly loved. Mr. Wright said:

"It is a popular idea that Lincoln was a self-made man, but it is very erroneous one. It is true that Lincoln availed himself of every opportunity that presented itself whereby he could improve, but no mere man could make of himself what Lincoln was. God made Lincoln and the chisel he used was American institutions."

The reading hour will be a feature of the daily program, and when the weather permits it will be held in the grove. In the reading hour this afternoon Miss Merrington gave "Grandfather's Chair," by Hawthorne. Preceding the patriotic concerts in the evening 25 slides from photos of Japan by Underwood & Underwood were thrown upon the screen. A fine display of fireworks on the lake front brought the day to a close.

AN ENORMOUS PURCHASE.

Gusky's Entire Stock Just Bought by Kaufmann Brothers.

A Record-Breaking Transaction Involving Many Thousands of Dollars.

By the consummation of a sale just made to Kaufmann Bros. by Mrs. Father Gusky, owner of the late firm of J. M. Gusky & Co., the proprietors of the "Big Store" have acquired the largest stock of clothing and ready-to-wear apparel for men, women and children that has ever been disposed of within the business center of this city. The extent and magnitude of this sale surpasses by far any and all similar purchases heretofore made by Messrs. Kaufmann Brothers.

The public of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and tributary points is familiar with the character and make-up of the general stock of goods of Gusky's establishment. But even more favorably is it known to them that Messrs. Kaufmann Brothers never yet have obtained or offered for sale any stock of merchandise secured through forced or legal sale that is in every point of quality and serviceability was not equal to the A1 standard. That has been the policy of the "Big Store" from its very inception, and upon this policy rests solely its sweeping popularity with the people of western Pennsylvania.

Every item and article of the late Gusky establishment is now being transferred to Kaufmann's Store, on Smithfield street. In a few days the entire stock will be placed on sale at the "Big Store." In this, as in all previous sales of this character, the buying public will be given the opportunity of securing all kinds of clothing and ready-to-wear apparel at prices never before given. Prospective buyers will profit by watching the announcement of this sale, which will be made shortly. The goods and prices prevailing at this oncoming sale at Kaufmann's will arouse all careful and economic buyers everywhere. To them this sale will be an event of remarkable importance. Watch Kaufmann's announcements in the daily papers.

Reduction in Word's Fair Rates Via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Effective July 1, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad reduced rates for world's fair tickets from Pittsburgh (tickets on sale every day) as follows:

Sixty-day, $18.40.
Season, $22.40.

Special $12 tickets—good in coaches only—will be sold on dates to be announced later. Railroad and Pullman tickets may be secured at office at city ticket office, corner Fifth avenue and Wood street.

A $50,000,000 Fact confronts world's fair visitors at St. Louis. Requires at least two weeks to get a comprehensive idea of the world's greatest exposition. 15-day tickets over Pennsylvania first-class lines, $16.50 from Pittsburgh. Coach excursion tickets $12 on advertised days.

CROATIAN CHURCH WILL HAVE TROUBLES AIRED

Bishop Canevin Appoints Committee to Report to Him in Case of Congregation.

Coadjutor Bishop J. F. Regis Canevin will make a thorough investigation into the trouble that at present threatens to disrupt the congregation of St. Nicholas Roman Catholic church of Allegheny. Bishop Canevin and Chancellor William Kittell yesterday morning at 9 o'clock met the official board of the church and had a long conference.

The circumstances causing the strife and creating ill feeling between the congregation and the Rev. Father Bekovge were explained briefly by the official board. After listening for some time, Bishop Canevin brought the meeting to a close, and declared he would probe the matter to the bottom. He will appoint a committee of churchmen to work in conjunction with the board of trustees in investigating the charges reported and the conditions that have existed in the church since its reorganization two years ago.

The keys of the building, demanded by the Bishop Sunday, will remain with the janitor and services will be held next Sunday as usual, unless the report of the committee is published by that time and Bishop Canevin gives other instructions.

THE CHIEF CHARM OF WOMEN'S GOWNS

That They Shall Be Immaculately Fresh and Clean Is More Important Than Material Or Style.

Linnekin's new process for cleaning and dyeing fabrics of every description gives results so perfect that unless you have actually seen some of their work you can hardly believe it possible. The most delicate evening gowns can be cleaned or dyed without the slightest injury. Men's suits are cleaned or dyed and pressed with such skill that they are returned to their owners looking as if they had just left the hands of the tailor.

Carpets, rugs, draperies and upholstered furniture cleaned or dyed in the most scientific and satisfactory manner.
